Washington Prepares to Welcome Foreign Minister on Visit to Hoover

Jersey City, N. J.—(AP)—Cutting a corner around New York city, where anti-Fascist demonstrations had been threatened, Foreign Minister Dino Grandi of Italy, arrived in New York harbor today and was transferred from the liner with his wife and associates to New Jersey where he boarded a special train for Washington.

The Grandi party was brought here on a cutter from Quarantine after unfavorable weather had prevented the carrying out of state department plan to have Col. Charles A. Lindbergh fly the Italians direct from the harbor to Washington.

Grandi, his wife, and the experts accompanying him to take part in his conversations with President Hoover transferred from the liner Conte Grande at Quarantine and were taken to the Jersey shore while the liner continued to its New York city pier.

A special train was waiting at the Pennsylvania railroad pier here and as soon as the Grandi party was aboard it started for Washington.

WEATHER FOUL FLIERS

New York—(AP)—Low flying fogs today balked the state department plan to take Foreign Minister Dino Grandi of Italy by air from the liner Conte Grande to Washington.

At noon Pan-American Airways, which had rushed a plane from the factory, recalled Col. Charles A. Lindbergh from the south and brought a four-man crew from Miami especially to take Grandi to Washington, announced the weather made the plan impossible.

Pan-American officials said they did not know Grandi and his party would proceed to Washington, but it was generally believed they would be taken on a cutter from the liner to the New Jersey shore and proceed from there by train. State department officials went down the bay early this morning to supervise and the projected transfer of the Grandi party from the liner to the plane.

PREPARE FOR WELCOME

Washington—(AP)—Washington looked to the eastern sky today for the approach of black-bearded Dino Grandi, foreign minister of Italy.

President Hoover and Secretary Stimson were all ready for their talks with the Italian on the complex affairs of Europe. The president planned to receive Grandi at the White House late in the afternoon, immediately after the minister was to talk to newspapermen at the Italian embassy. He and Signora Grandi will dine informally with Secretary and Mrs. Stimson at their home, Woodley, where they are to remain as guests Monday and Tuesday nights. The formal talks with Mr. Hoover will come on the succeeding days of the visit.

Tomorrow's program calls for a visit to the unknown soldier's tomb, luncheon at the Italian embassy, a reception by the Overseas Writers club, a call upon Chief Justice Hughes, and at night a brilliant dinner given by Secretary Stimson at the Pan-American union.

Wednesday Grandi will be established at the Mayflower hotel for the two remaining days of the visit. More luncheons, dinners and receptions will follow.

SEN. H. W. JOHNSON

Johnson Is Favored For Race In 1932

Californian to Be Asked to Seek Nomination at G. O. P. Convention

Washington—(AP)—Will Hiram W. Johnson seek the Republican presidential nomination against Herbert Hoover?

He will be asked to, when he gets here this week or next, by some of the western independents in Congress who are down on a number of the major policies of the present chief executive. The party leaders are hopeful that he will clear up his intended part in the 1932 race.

Senator Brookhart of Iowa, is a chief mover in a boom for his California colleague; he has asserted that not only independents but "many of the regulars" would join him if Johnson placed his hat in the ring.

The question was fanned up to energetic interest by Senator Johnson himself when he recently attacked the Hoover administration upon its relations with the league of nations in the dispute between China and Japan. He called for a ballot box repudiation of the Hoover policy.

Then the former Chicago mayor, William Hale Thompson wrote Brookhart that while he had no authority to launch a presidential boom for Johnson he would be glad to confer with the Californian on the subject.

"I am primarily interested," he wrote, "in preserving the Republican party and the principles laid down by Abraham Lincoln and I am sure that this can be done through the renomination of President Hoover."

Significant in the opinion of many political heads is the entry of Representative Swing into the senatorial race for California. Swing is a close friend of Johnson. He will oppose Senator Shortridge in next spring's primary. If Swing and Johnson combine for a battle against the president in his home state next year something like a showdown in Republican affairs is expected.

Among the chief objections to Mr. Hoover shown by the independent wing of the Republican contingent in Congress have been his farm relief and tariff policies.

CONVICTED SLAYER SAYS HE'S OFFICER

Atlanta—(AP)—Passing of sentences on J. D. Lee, alias Sumner Compton, convicted Saturday of murdering Ben Lichtenstein, wealthy wholesale grocer, was delayed by Judge E. E. Pomeroy today until Saturday, pending an investigation of Lee's claims that he is a federal undercover agent sent to Atlanta on a "secret government mission."

Arthur Powell, Lee's attorney, told the court of the claims this morning and said his client had withheld his true identity. He declared Lee's "femmes had placed him on the spot" in the Lichtenstein slaying.

Judge Pomeroy was further informed that Lee had withheld this information until he discovered that his mother, who lives in Seattle, Wash., had already learned of his plight.

STRAWBERRIES, ROSES ARE GROWING IN OHIO

Chillicothe, Ohio—(AP)—Strawberry growers here reported today that they had been gathering the berries for the past five weeks as a result of the warm weather and one grower even placed a few on the market. Roses are also blooming in this district.

THEATRE SAFE LOOTED

Madison—(AP)—Weekend receipts amounting to $409.35 in cash and $273.93 in checks were taken by burglars who forced open a safe at the Majestic theatre here last night.

FARMER SLAIN; LABORER HELD IN RACINE JAIL

Argument Over Wages Resulted in Shooting, Officials Informed

Racine—(AP)—Frank Farley, 51, a laborer, was held in the county jail here today on a charge of slaying William Mahoney, 40, farmer living three miles northwest of this city during an argument over wages.

The shooting occurred at the shack of William Miller, operator of a small chicken farm adjoining the Mahoney property, where Farley made his home. Farley had come some work for Mahoney and the farmer went to the Miller place last night to pay him.

After the trio had taken several drinks of liquor, authorities said, a dispute started. Mahoney objected to paying the amount of money Farley insisted he had earned, declaring the sum was excessive. A fight ensued.

Farley fled into another room, Miller told officers, and emerged with a shotgun. He fired at Mahoney, the charge striking the farmer in the chest. Mahoney ran into the yard and collapsed. His body was found by T. P. Thompson of Root River, who had gone to the Mahoney home by some geese and was directed by Mrs. Mahoney to the Miller place.

Sheriff's deputies found Farley in the Miller shack. He admitted to Sheriff John Anderson and Paul Jorgensen, assistant district attorney, that he killed Mahoney but said he shot in self-defense. Miller was detained as a material witness.

Mrs. Mahoney, when informed of her husband's death, became hysterical and was placed under a physician's care. There are six children in the family, ranging in age from eight months to 13 years.

HITLER'S PARTISANS SCORE NEW VICTORY

Darmstadt, Hesse, Germany—(AP)—Adolf Hitler's National Socialists had scored another provincial victory over the moderate supporters of the government of Chancellor Heinrich Brüning today, as results of elections for the state of Hesse yesterday gave them control of the diet. They secured 27 seats where they formerly held none.

The Social Democrats and Centreists most prominent of the moderate coalition supporting the chancellor's government in the nation, lost 9 out of 24, and 3 out of 10 seats respectively. The Communists added 6 to their present 4 seats, all 6 gained at the expense of the Social Democrats.

POWER COMMISSION CONVENES IN STATE

Milwaukee—(AP)—The Federal Power commission convened in a brief session here today to consider the testimony regarding two projects of the Minnesota Light and Power company in northern Minnesota and adjourned for a resumption of the hearing Wednesday.

The adjournment was granted to permit attorneys to confer over testimony to be introduced. The hearing involved the proposed irregularities in connection with the company's hydro-electric project at Blanchard rapids on the Mississippi river and on the Keweenaw river.

Bullet Found In Shack Not One Which Killed Recluse

Monticello, Wis.—(AP)—The mystery of the fatal shooting of Fred Lutz, recluse farmer, deceased today, was solved by the statement of Prof. J. H. Mathews, University of Wisconsin ballistics expert, that the bullet found imbedded in a wall in Lutz's house was not the one that killed him.

Professor Mathews said that, while the bullet evidently had been fired recently, it was of .32 caliber, smaller than the bullet likely responsible for the man's death. He expected to make further examination to determine the chemical composition of specks and fiber clinging to the bullet.

Mrs. Hattie Caraway, above, has been appointed by Governor Parnell to fill the unexpired term of her late husband, Senator Thaddeus H. Caraway of Arkansas, pending a special election on Jan. 12. She will be the second woman to sit in the U. S. Senate. Mrs. Rebecca Felton of Georgia having served one day several years ago.

DREISER AND NINE OTHERS INDICTED

Kentucky Grand Jury Brings Charges of Criminal Syndicalism

Middlesboro, Ky.—(AP)—Theodore Dreiser and John Dos Passos, New York authors, Marie Pergain and seven others were indicted by a Bell county grand jury here today on charges of criminal syndicalism.

All of those indicted were with Dreiser's National Committee for the Defense of Political Prisoners during an investigation of coal field labor conditions in Harlan and Boone counties last week.

Commonwealth's Attorney W. A. Brock, who serves in Bell and Harlan counties, said he would take immediate steps to return Dreiser and his companions for trial in Bell county.

Others named were Charles Rufford Walker; his wife Adelaide Walker, Samuel Ornitz, Celia Kuhn, George Maurer, representative of the International Labor Defense, M. P. Levey, a writer and A. Gohns. The latter named apparently was listed incorrectly as the other member of the group was A. Gannes.

All were named in a single indictment which charged Dreiser and his associates, during the tour of the coal fields, unlawfully banded and confederated together "to commit criminal syndicalism and to promulgate a reign of terror" in the coal fields. The indictment charged further that Dreiser's group had suggested disorders and resistance to the government of the United States and of Kentucky.

Dreiser and the Pergain woman already were under indictment in Bell county. Both were charged previously with adultery. Dreiser denied the adultery charge.

LEGION OFFICER ASKS ACTION ON DRY LAW

Indianapolis, Ind.—(AP)—John Thomas Taylor, vice chairman of the American Legion's national legislative committee, today asked executive committee members for instructions on the handling before congress of the resolution adopted by the legion convention at Detroit relative to a referendum on the eighteenth amendment.

The executive committee took no immediate action on Taylor's request. The vice chairman gave an outline of the entire legislative program that will be supported by the legion when congress meets in December. The executive committee is meeting here for a two day session.

SECRET CONFAB BY COUNCIL ON ORIENT CRISIS

Chinese Commander Launches Heavy Attack on Japanese at Tshing

Paris—(AP)—Aristide Briand told the league of nations council in private session this afternoon that U. S. Ambassador Charles G. Dawes will take a seat in the council if the Kellogg pact is again invoked in consideration of the Manchurian dispute.

Briand implied that the council probably would involve the Kellogg pact very soon, and said he understood General Dawes was ready to sit with the council, with the approval of his government, when the council repeated its action of four weeks ago putting the Kellogg pact formally into effect.

If the ambassador comes in it would restore the situation which existed at the last council meeting with Prentiss Gilbert present, and the United States would be represented on the league's executive board by its highest ranking foreign diplomat.

The league of nations council, with Ambassador Charles G. Dawes absent, met for 20 minutes to consider the Manchurian dispute, then adjourned the public meeting explaining that more time was needed for private negotiations.

Reports from Harbin, Manchuria, to Tokio said General Mah Chan-Shan, the Chinese commander, had launched an attack at Tshing and that heavy fighting was in progress. It was said Mah planned a general offensive with his 30,000 troops.

Mukden reported the Japanese were digging in for the winter, issuing winter clothing to troops and constructing trenches. The leader of the movement to enthronize Henry Pu-Yi as emperor left for Dairen to meet "a distinguished personage" who was believed to be the former boy emperor.

A note from the Japanese government to the Nanking government reiterated the Japanese charge that Chinese are aggravating the situation in Manchuria and asserted there could be no peace until China "abandons her policy of utilizing anti-foreign agitation to attain her ends."

BRIEF PUBLIC MEETING

Paris—(AP)—The council of the league of nations deliberated for 20 minutes over the Manchurian conflict late today, the date set for Japanese evacuation in Manchuria.

CLAIMS JEFFERSON-CO OFFICER PAID BY GANG

Jefferson—(AP)—Charles that a Jefferson official had been on a Chicago gang, was paid $100 a month were made here today by H. Hartwig, county roadhouse inspector and former mayor of Watertown.

The charge was made informally by Hartwig after he had filed a report with the county board in which he painted a lurid picture of vice, gambling and bootlegging which, he said, thrives without molestation throughout the county. A Chicago gang, he charged, operates many of the county's resorts.

Hartwig's formal report stated that there are ten licensed dance halls and roadhouses in the county, and 12 that are unlicensed. "Ten of the amusement enterprises are being taxed," while the county is "not adequate means to control the other half of the report," he said. "Gangsters in an effort to evade the law, have been given a license to operate. The ordinance under which he operates provides that 'before making arrests the inspector must report to and act on the advice of the county dance hall committee.'"

INCOME TAX EXTENSION IS URGED BY GROVES

Milwaukee—(AP)—Extension of the income tax and levying of a tax on dividends was advocated here today by Harold M. Groves, professor at the University of Wisconsin and as president of the First district. Prof. Groves, in an address before the National Convention of the Wisconsin League of Women Voters, urged that inequalities of property tax be eliminated.

"We will raise two-thirds of our revenue for state and local governments from the property tax," Prof. Groves said. "This is an inequitable tax to hold such an important place in our revenue system. There is still a lot of room for expansion of the income tax. When an individual with an income of $10,000 or $15,000 customarily pays his share two or three times what he pays through income tax to all units of government we can be assured there is still plenty of elasticity in the income tax. Dividends have the same capacity for paying tax as any other income, and they are still untaxed."

WOLVES DON'T WANT U. W. IN CHARITY GAME

Ann Arbor, Mich.—(AP)—Coach Fritz Rike charged back against promoters today that the University of Michigan football team is not to play in a charity game.

Rike said he believed the "Northwestern" and "Detroit" gamblers would have a lot of the proceeds of the game possible, but the team would not play for the "last year's" proceeds. "We are not interested in the proceeds of the game," he said, "but we are interested in the proceeds of the game."

The action was general in Ann Arbor that the game scheduled with the University of Wisconsin for Nov. 22 would not draw a large crowd. The Bears already have lost two games. It also was felt that scheduling Wisconsin instead of Northwestern for the charity game would reduce the proceeds to the Michigan team.

The game was scheduled for Saturday, but promoters had decided to play it on Monday, claiming the "Wolverines" as a "life-time" privilege.

HUNTS FOUR ROBBERIES

Eldorado—(AP)—Sheriff James Mason today was attempting to apprehend four men, apparently amateurs, who Saturday night obtained $100 and jewelry in a holdup of the Blue Moon roadhouse at Como, four miles southeast of here.

OMAHA LIQUOR DRIVE HINTED BY GOV. BRYAN

Executive Threatens State Actions Unless Conditions Improve

Lincoln, Neb.—(AP)—Gov. Charles W. Bryan today threatened to take up the enforcement of liquor laws in Omaha with officers from the state sheriff's department unless conditions there improve.

He said the recent slayings there of George Kullo, liquor dealer, and Sam Videla, still tender, put "Omaha in a class with Chicago in a miniature way."

Bryan said he recalled a recent statement by United States District Attorney C. A. Sandahl that federal enforcement officers were not "tough" after the big dealers and high-ups but were continuing their activities to the small fry.

"I have felt," he added, "that a federal staff of about 15 men, plus a large police force and a well staffed county sheriff's force, was sufficient to enforce the law there."

However, the governor added, "it may be necessary for the state to send its staff to Omaha to enforce the law if the local group can't produce evidence within a short time they are able or willing to cope with a situation that has shocked the rest of the state and the central section of the nation."

Sheriff Investigates

State Sheriff Michael Andrews spent the weekend in Omaha investigating the situation.

Attorney General A. Sorenson, who was in Omaha Saturday investigating the situation, indicated that if the Al Capone interests are operating there, they would withdraw providing the state accepts the offer of Gus Winkler, Capone lieutenant, for dismissal of a bank robbery charge against him in connection with the $2,500,000 Lincoln National Bank and Trust company robbery last year.

Winkler offered the alibi that he was at Buffalo, N. Y., the day of the robbery and told officers that if they drop the charge, he will return $400,000 worth of bonds stolen in the robbery. He and his friends will pay $12,000 for the bonds. He did not name parties who hold the bonds for his friends. County Attorney Max Towle now is investigating the alibi but asserted the return of the bonds would not influence him in the decision.

L. J. TABER

Grange Again Picks Taber As Its Chief

Madison—(AP)—Louis J. Taber, Columbus, Ohio, was reelected master of the National Grange at the organization's annual convention here today.

The national master has served for the past eight years and is the first to be elected for a fifth term of two years.

Mr. Taber has been a member of the grange for 32 years. He served as lecturer in local and county granges for eight years and was made master of the Ohio State grange for as many years. A dairy farmer specializing in purebred Jersey cattle, Mr. Taber was a director of agriculture for the state of Ohio for two years.

One other master has served longer than Mr. Taber. J. H. Brinkham of Ohio, former assistant secretary of agriculture, served nine years, having been elected for four two-year terms and for a one-year term. Oliver Wilson of Illinois, and Aaron Jones of Indiana, are among the few past masters who served eight years.

Masters of the National Grange said the growth of the order was a tribute to the leadership of Mr. Taber. They pointed out that the grange is one of two national fraternal organizations that showed hard work.

Mr. Taber credits his success in Grange work to his wife and hard work.

"I am lucky because my wife has a knowledge and a love of agriculture," he said. "But more than that, it has been easier to work hard for the Grange because my wife loves it as I do."

PHILIP SNOWDEN IS RAISED TO PEERAGE

London—(AP)—Official announcement was made today that Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer in Ramsay MacDonald's Labor cabinet, has been created a viscount.

He was one of the strongest figures in the Labor government and by his services earned the appellation "Iron Chancellor." His magic with figures achieved a balance in the British budget and he won the recommendations which increased the government's borrowing power and the government's borrowing power and the government's borrowing power.

Of recent years he has been severely ill. He did not run for reelection in the 1929 election, but he was included in the present cabinet as Lord Philip Snowdon.

HOTEL MEN FOR STATE ADVERTISING GROUP

Madison—(AP)—An organization, incorporated under the laws of Wisconsin to make a business enterprise of advertising the state to tourists was organized by the Wisconsin Hotel association at a meeting here today.

The object of the plan, a committee of the association said, will be to bring people into the state and to build for it a national reputation as a leader in summer recreation, agriculture and industry.

WATSON AND SMOOT AGREE ON NECESSITY

Indiana Senator Finds Increase "Inescapable," He Declares

ACTION HELD CERTAIN

Type of Increase Up to Congress—Leaders Favor Sales Tax

BULLETIN

Washington—(AP)—An administration tax revision program is almost completed and will be sent to congress with President Hoover's budget message on Dec. 9. Republican leaders today agreed it would be pressed.

Washington—(AP)—Congressional Republican leaders today agreed to sponsor tax increases at this session.

Senator Watson, the Republican leader who has consistently opposed new taxes at this time, said today after a conference with President Hoover that a "border is inescapable." At the same time Chairman Smoot of the senate finance committee, announced there will have to be further taxation.

Watson's reversal was accepted on Capitol Hill as setting a Republican tax program.

What the form of new or increased rates will be recommended is uncertain, pending further conferences between congressional leaders and President Hoover and Secretary Mellon.

While both Senators Watson and Smoot favor a sales tax, they agreed it was very problematical that congress would approve such a plan.

Increased rates on the larger incomes appear certain.

Senator Watson would not state his personal views on the tax problem but the fact that he changed position after his White House visit was interpreted on Capitol Hill as a sure sign that the administration would recommend new taxation.

Treasury officials fear a deficit this year of almost $2,000,000,000. It is known that Secretary Mellon would not like to meet this gap by borrowing without congressional authority.

Watson believes that both increased taxation and additional borrowing by the government will be necessary this year. The deficit last year was $1,000,000,000.

As for the general legislative program, Senator Watson believed the president would ask up his recommendations without any specific plan for partisan or non-partisan consideration.

SMOOT'S POSITION

Smoot's statement added emphasis to the growing belief in congress that revision will be necessary at the next session of congress.

In declaring in favor of a general sales tax, the Utah senator, a keen student of financial matters for years, aligned himself with Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, another staunch administration supporter.

The administration is studying sales tax suggestions, but has not yet announced its stand on tax increases.

The treasury deficit for this fiscal year, however, continues to grow. In the first four months after June 30, 1931, it passed the $350,000,000 mark. The deficit at the end of the last fiscal year was $350,000,000.

Members of a formidable group in congress have said they think the deficit should be made up by higher taxes on large incomes and by strengthening the inheritance tax laws through some sort of gift tax.

Among them are such regular Republicans as Representative Bachrach of New Jersey, one of the ranking members on the powerful house ways and means committee.

Several Democrats and members of the western independent group have expressed themselves in favor of higher levies on large incomes as opposed to the sales tax idea.

Representative Garner, Democratic candidate for the speakership, and Senator Harrison, a senate Democratic leader, have agreed after conferring that any tax revision should reach the higher income brackets and the gift tax field.

Senator Smoot said today he was not certain the senate would approve the sales tax idea.

He urged that something be done to restore silver as an assistant to

RANSOM EFFORTS KEPT SECRET IN KIDNAPING

Des Moines—(AP)—Friends of Alvin Kiddle, Des Moines cigar store proprietor who was kidnapped Saturday morning, planned today to keep secret all negotiations for ransom and return of the man, believed held in Aurora, Ill. Late Sunday no word had been received from Kiddle or his abductors. Mrs. Kiddle was in retirement here with members of her family.

U. S. And Canada May Agree On Waterway Treaty By Christmas

TWO NATIONS TRY TO IRON OUT PROBLEMS

Discuss Allocation of Costs and Engineering at Washington Conclave

Washington—(AP)—The United States and Canada are down to business at last on the St. Lawrence waterway, and a treaty by Christmas is possible.

First formal exchanges in the negotiations which are to lead to establishment of a ship channel from the Atlantic to the Great Lakes took place Saturday. They related to the allocation of costs and engineering structures. They touched also upon the trouble spot of the project—power.

Significant in regard to the latter was the state department announcement that both countries' representatives "proposed to keep in touch with the respective provincial and state authorities in the consideration of the power features of the development."

New York met a definite rebuff when she sought to sit in on the treaty conference. The federal government has carefully avoided any confusion on the point.

The discussion so far has dealt with the 43-mile international section, extending from Ogdensburg, N. Y., to a point opposite Cornwall, Ont. Secretary Stimson and Minister Herridge of Canada have made arrangement for immediate reconvening of the joint engineering board, which will attempt to agree on procedure in the international section. This board was disbanded in 1926, the Canadians holding out for two dams instead of one. Since then, however, the United States advisers have shown willingness to concede the point.

If all goes well with the negotiations, a formal treaty may be laid before the senate for ratification early in the year.

RISKE ATTORNEYS TO ASK FOR NEW TRIAL

Base Motion on Fact Juror Was Relative of Louis Hoffman

Judge Byron B. Park, circuit judge for Waupaca co., will hold a special session of court at 7 o'clock tonight to hear motion for new trial for Edward Riske, New London, found guilty last week of murdering Louis Hoffman, New London. Attorneys for Riske will ask new trial on the grounds that George W. Suits, town of Waupaca farmer, and foreman of the jury, was a second cousin of the dead man.

The jury found Riske caused the death of Hoffman by poisoning moonshine whiskey which Hoffman drank while at a dance the night of June 20. Henry Kopitzke, also of New London, died from drinking some of the liquor.

Attorneys for Riske have contended Hoffman's wife poisoned the liquor. She committed suicide by drowning July 5. The state maintained Riske poisoned the liquor so he might marry Mrs. Hoffman after her husband's death.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE MEETS TOMORROW

Eighteen members of the citizens' school site committee appointed last winter to study the school problem will visit high school classes Tuesday morning. Henry Boon is chairman of the group. The committee was selected on the recommendation of the board of education by a committee of three representing the chamber of commerce, Appleton Woman's club and the Trades and Labor council.

Members of the committee include Mrs. J. P. Frank, Leonard Jacobs, C. K. Boyer, Mrs. Joseph Koffend, Jr., Carl Smith, Dr. W. J. Frawley, C. E. Maesch, George Brock, George Dame, Mrs. William Steiner, W. F. Murphy, Gustave Tesch, Mrs. Herman Chade, M. J. Black, Leslie Smith, Mrs. George Nixon and Mrs. R. Raschig.

COUNCIL NOMINATING COMMITTEE TO MEET

The nominating committee of the valley council of boy scouts will meet this week to discuss plans for the annual council meeting on Dec. 10, according to M. G. Clark, valley scout executive. The date and place for the committee meeting is to be announced Tuesday.

The annual council meeting is scheduled for Thursday evening, Dec. 10, at First Methodist Episcopal church. The annual banquet will be served in the church basement and the meeting is to be held in the Sunday school auditorium.

Dates Set To Settle Card Game Strife

New York—(AP)—The Culbertson-Lenz challenge contract bridge match which seeks to settle the respective merits of the "Culbertson" and "official" or Lenz systems, will be held between Dec. 7 and Jan. 15. Only newspaper representatives will be admitted to the matches.

Culbertson has posted a wager of $5,000 against $1,000 put up by Lenz the victor to donate his winnings to charity.

The teams of both Ely Culbertson and Sidney S. Lenz were defeated in the Vanderbilt cup tournament which ended yesterday and which was won by the co-called "Four horsemen of bridge," Philip Hal Sims, Willard S. Karn, Oswald Jacoby and David Burnstine, using the "one-over-one" bidding system.

The runners-up were Walter Malowan, John Matthews, Howard Schenken, and Sherman Stearns, members of the recently formed Cavendish team.

A typical example of the "one-over-one" system, used both by the winners and the runners-up, came on the following hand:

North
S-K 4.
H-A K 9 6 5 4.
D-K.
C-K Q J 7.
West
S-J 6 5.

Karn, for "the horsemen," and Matthews, for the Cavendish team, each started with one diamond in the South. Both Sims and Malowan, in the north position, then bid one heart. In their method this one bid after partner's one bid was bound to cause South to keep the bidding open. Karn responded to the heart bid with two diamonds.

Sims bid three clubs, Karn four clubs, and Sims six, seven being made. Matthews answered the one heart demand call with three diamonds, whereupon Malowan bid six to trump at once, and Matthews took it to seven, which was made.

Lenz's team was eliminated in the Vanderbilt tournament Friday night, and Culbertson's team was beaten in the semi-finals yesterday.

JAPS PREPARE FOR WINTER IN STRIFE REGION

Cold Weather Quarters Being Fitted in Manchurian Districts

Mukden, Manchuria—(AP)—Winter clothing was being issued to Japanese troops in Manchuria today and this, with the disposition of the troops in all three areas, who were holding communications systems in an iron grip, was considered to be Japan's answer to the league of nations council and its hopes for peace.

Winter quarters were being prepared in all areas and the indication was that military leaders expect a winter long occupation of the territory. High Japanese military and civilian officials alike expressed the opinion that it would last at least several months.

Today is the day fixed in the council's previous resolution, adopted before adjournment at Geneva a fortnight ago, for complete withdrawal of Japan's forces.

The Japanese are reported to be dominating the governments of Liaoning and Kirin provinces with sizable detachments in three areas outside the South Manchurian railway zone. The force of 13,600 troops, as it stood after the Mukden coup of Sept. 18, is undiminished, except for about 200 killed or seriously wounded in engagements and a fresh mixed brigade is on the way for replacements.

The occupation of Kirin and Changchun is likely to be continued for a long time, it was stated, because each place commands a railway built with Japanese funds and by Japanese engineers for which the Chinese have never paid.

Control Railroads
Control over the Changchun-Kirin, Tunghua, Chengshiatzfa, Supingka and Taonan-Anganchi railways enables the Japanese to throttle the Mukden-Hailun-Kirin and Taku-shan-Paiyintala Railways, which the Chinese built in recent years, paralleling the South Manchuria railway, over Japanese protest.

The army on the Nonni river front was reported by its headquarters to have defeated a Chinese cavalry detachment of 4,000 in a considerable engagement yesterday and to have occupied the village of Chienkuangli, 12 kilometers northeast of Taining.

Infantry, cavalry, artillery and aircraft were said to have participated in the engagement which resulted in driving off the Chinese, who were threatening the Japanese right flank. The size of the Japanese force or the number of casualties was not revealed.

More than half the population of Mukden marched and sang in a pro-Japanese demonstration this morning. Mothers paraded, carrying children on their backs and tiny Japanese flags in their hands. Hundreds of banners and thousands of placards on the houses in the Japanese section of the city told of Japan's role of peacekeeper in the east and blamed the league's intervention in the conflict.

Henry Pu-Yi, former boy emperor, was thought to be hiding in the Mukden home of one of the numerous Manchurian princes after his trip from Tientsin, but chances of a

Wheat Prices Past Bottom Point, Iowa Prof States

BY PROFESSOR G. S. SHEPHERD
(Department of Agricultural Economics, Iowa State College)

Ames, Iowa—(AP)—Wheat is recovering.

After two years of steadily falling prices that have carried wheat down to the lowest level reached in 250 years, wheat prices seem to have touched bottom and started upward again.

Wheat has risen from a low point of 44¢ cents a bushel at Chicago five weeks ago to 68¢ cents a bushel Nov. 9.

What has caused this remarkable recovery in the price of wheat?

Perhaps the spark that touched off monarchist restoration seemed remote.

Dig Trench System
Hundreds of Chinese coolies have been digging day and night constructing a trench system covering the Anganchi area. It is an elaborate three-line affair with the main strongholds at points seven kilometers south of Anganchi.

These preparations were synchronized with a Chinese cavalry raid which succeeded in cutting the Taonan-Anganchi railways and telegraph lines halfway between Taonan and the Nonni river. The damage was repaired shortly afterwards, however.

General Mah's troops seemed short of provisions, it was reported, and they are commandeering foodstuffs and money from towns and villages around Anganchi and Tsitsihar.

Two Germans, one Czech, and one Estonian, all residents of Mukden, were captured by Chinese bandits while hunting near Hsinmintun here yesterday. They were held several hours, stripped of all their outer clothing, beaten and compelled to run a mile behind horses. They were released when a Japanese airplane flew overhead and they walked three miles into Chulihuo where the Japanese military hospital gave them first aid.

REPORT ROOSEVELT AND SMITH PARLEY DURING LUNCHEON

New York—(AP)—The Times says Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, often spoken of as a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, and former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, whom he once called Democracy's "happy warrior," are going to talk things over at a private luncheon this week.

Gov. Roosevelt plans to go south for a holiday within a few days. According to the Times' information the governor himself arranged the interview, but even the closest associates of both men expressed no knowledge of the meeting, nor would they indicate what subject might be discussed.

Considerable significance was attached by political observers to the report, in view of last week's conferences in which former Gov. Smith, John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National committee, and Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, a presidential possibility, participated.

Friends of both Gov. Roosevelt and Mr. Smith said there were many subjects of common interest involving both party and state affairs concerning which conversation might be desirable.

The Times had no information as to the definite date on which the meeting would take place. It stated, however, that Mr. Smith had received the invitation to the private luncheon in a letter from Albany.

EXPLAIN INTENT OF STATE'S NEW TAX ON GASOLINE

Commission Points Out All Highway Improvement Can't Be Made in Few Years

The increased gasoline tax will not permit improvement of the entire state trunk highway system throughout the state within the next year or two, according to a letter received this week by the Outagamie-co highway committee from the state highway commission. The letter is written, the commission explains, to offset the widespread opinion that the increased tax will permit the immediate improvement of all roads. No such interpretation is warranted by the so-called four-cent gas tax law, the commission points out.

By its very statement of purpose the law was not a revenue-producing measure but a tax-shifting measure, the letter says. It lifted a very material portion of the burden of highway construction and maintenance from general property and placed it on the user of the road—the motor vehicle owner. The specific statement indicating that this was the intent of the legislature is contained in the law itself, which reads in part, as follows:

"It is declared the sense of the legislature that the amounts made available for rural highway improvements in 1930, through the state and its counties, exclusive of the amounts provided by subdivisions of the counties for local improvements, is a sum sufficient to meet reasonable requirements of traffic, being efficiently administered, and is the maximum that a decent regard for the interest of the taxpayers will permit."

Must Cut Taxes

This section further provides that the additional allotments to the towns, cities and villages of Wisconsin shall be used by them to reduce property taxes for highway purposes in their localities. The legislature has likewise given the highway commission ample authority for enforcing this section by withholding the entire allotment to any locality that fails to cooperate with the legislative policy in reducing property taxes.

"Perhaps a summarized statement showing the effects of the law will be of interest," the communication continues.

The estimated revenue from the increased gasoline tax of two cents for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1932, is $3,475,000. Of this amount, it is estimated that approximately $1,300,000 will be paid by the motor vehicle visitors from outside the state, leaving an amount in excess of $7,000,000 which is paid by the motor vehicle owners of Wisconsin.

"The estimated effect of the gas tax law follows: saving of personal property tax on motor vehicles, $3,423,500; increased state aid for county trunk highways, $670,566; increased allotment for maintenance and snow removal on state trunk highway system, $1,640,912; bonds retired from state allotments, previously retired by direct property tax, $1,295,686.

See Policy Change

"A comparison of the estimated effect with the estimated revenues clearly shows a decided change in the legislative policy, in very materially devoting a greater sum of state revenues to highway purposes other than construction and maintenance on state trunk highway system, thereby permitting a corresponding decrease in the general property taxes levied by the counties and local communities for highway purposes.

"The commission, in planning its 1932 construction and maintenance program, was obliged to defer the approval of a large number of recommended improvements which are needed and which the commission would undertake if sufficient funds were available for the purpose. It was necessary, however, to limit our program to a basis that can be financed out of the estimated revenues available for the purpose. The construction program was adopted after the most careful study of the necessities of the state trunk highway system and a conscientious consideration of the needs of the traveling public. Approximately 4,490 miles of the state trunk highway system will have a permanently dustless surfacing and, in addition, approximately 2,600 miles of state trunk highways of major importance will be treated with a dust layer in 1932, making a total of 7,090 miles out of the total of 10,000 miles.

"While the program is perhaps not quite as comprehensive as might be desired, it contemplates the maximum of work which can be undertaken with the funds at our disposal, and it is so located that, in the opinion of the commission, it will furnish the maximum of highway transportation service at this time."

APPOINT PUBLICITY COMMITTEE FOR PLAY

The publicity committee has been organized for the Little Theatre of the Fox River Valley, which will present its first play of the season, "Treasure Island," Saturday, Dec. 5, at Lawrence Memorial chapel under the direction of Mrs. F. Theodore Ciolek.

Miss Martha Sorenson of First Ward school heads the committee as chairman. She will be assisted in the surrounding cities by Miss Margaret O'Neill, dramatics instructor at Menasha high school; Miss Cecelia Calvey, dramatics director at Kaukauna high school; Miss Ruth Dieckhoff, Neenah, director of the Winnebago Players; Miss Agnes Johnson in charge of the publicity in Clintonville and New London. Miss Paula Carstens, high school art supervisor, has charge of the poster work in the Appleton public schools.

Grid Game Brings $987 To Charity

Appleton and Kaukauna charity organizations realized $493.97 each from the Kaukauna-Appleton high school football game last Wednesday, it was announced today by Herbert H. Heible, commander of Oney Johnston post, Appleton, and principal of Appleton high school. A sum of $1,986 was realized from the game.

That left $987.94 the net proceeds and with the money evenly divided $493.97 went to each city for charity. The actual paid attendance at the game was 2,696 persons, two thirds of whom were students and whose tickets were but 25 cents each.

The bus that brought Kaukauna gridlers to the game was donated by the Fox River Bus company; the football used in the contest was donated by the Conway pharmacy.

County Makes Arrangements To House Transients Next Winter

OLD WORKHOUSE AND JAIL FLOOR WILL BE USED

Board Decides That County Should Handle Funds for This Purpose

The Outagamie-co board this morning instructed Sheriff John Lappen to prepare the second floor of the county jail and the building that was formerly used as a county workhouse for use in housing transients next winter. The building and grounds and sheriff's committee were empowered to make the necessary improvements.

This action was taken with little discussion, as the board has previously considered the matter. The last time the matter was before the board it was suggested by Supervisors F. O. Smith, Horton, and Chute, that the county make an appropriation to the Salvation Army headquarters of Appleton and turn over to that organization full responsibility for caring for the work. This matter was to have been considered at a special meeting of the board this afternoon when Salvation Army officials were to appear to discuss the matter.

It was learned, however, that these officials were out of town and would not be back until late in the week. Supervisor T. H. Ryan moved that the board adopt the first proposition and that it drop any consideration of the plan to make an appropriation to the Salvation Army. He pointed out that the county should handle the distribution of its own funds and that by making an appropriation this year the board would be providing an entering wedge to application for aid in future years.

Resolution Calling for the extension of county aid to transients was introduced before the board by the five Kaukauna supervisors. These men were acting on the request of Police Chief R. H. McCarty of Kaukauna, who pointed out that the Kaukauna police departments, as well as those in other small communities of the county, are being heavily taxed by the application of scores of transient every night for lodging and breakfast.

In discussing the matter before the board, Sheriff Lappen pointed out that up to this time he had sent all transients to the Salvation Army. He said that certain equipment, including a fumigating machine, would be needed if the jail is to be used to house transients. He also pointed out that the Appleton city police refuses to extend aid to transients.

A report from John E. Hantschel, county clerk, pointing to the need for a paid employee to oversee distribution of clothing and poor aid extending through various agencies, was referred to the finance committee. Mr. Hantschel also suggested that the board convert a section of the basement of the courthouse into a storeroom for such donations of clothing and food as are received.

Need Worker, Claim
The clerk pointed out that the need for a paid worker was demonstrated last winter when his office and the sheriff's cooperated in securing and extending aid to suffering Indians in the town of Oneida. Mr. Hantschel also pointed out that if the county engaged such an overseer that the worker could also investigate other claims for poor aid which are received by the county.

Gus Sell, county agent, presented his annual report, which was approved. In discussing a report from the county asylum trustees, Supervisor Anton Jansen of Little Chute called the board's attention to the need for adequate fire protection for the county asylum and the county garage on Highway 16. He pointed out that in 15 minutes a fire could make such headway among these county-owned buildings that they would be destroyed. He said the county should take steps to protect its investment of almost a million dollars in these two institutions. He suggested the construction of two 100,000 gallon storage tanks so that sufficient water would be available in case of fire. No action was taken.

Supervisors Jansen and C. J. Burdick, Black Creek, were named on a special committee to act with the county nurse in investigating a plan in Wisconsin whereby children are being treated with toxin and toxin for the prevention of diphtheria. The county nurse has recommended a similar program for Outagamie-co.

$10,000 DAMAGE SUIT SETTLED FOR $2,000

A settlement of $2,000 was made this morning in municipal court in a suit for $10,000 damages brought by Melvin Lewis, 12, through his mother, Mrs. Mary A. Lewis, Appleton, against the Fairmont Creamery company. The case was settled a few minutes before it was to have been tried before a jury. The suit was the result of an accident on Nov. 23, 1929, when the Lewis boy was struck by a Fairmont creamery truck, driven by Herman Bushman, Appleton. The boy was crossing W. College-ave. at the intersection of Superior-st. when he was hit by the truck which was going east on College-ave. The boy's left leg was fractured and he was otherwise bruised and cut. He spent 15 weeks in a hospital, the complaint alleged, and will be permanently disabled as a result of the crash. The complaint charged the driver of the truck was careless and negligent.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Dewick and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Ecker motored to Madison this morning to attend the Madison Ohio State game.

Pioneer Dies

Ernest Koss, pioneer resident of Outagamie-co died Sunday at the age of 82. Mr. Koss, who operated a farm implement business for many years and later was a partner in the Peterson and Koss Hardware store, was a resident of the Sixth ward in 1886 and 1887, and from 1912 to 1914 was supervisor from the Sixth ward.

Ernest Koss Succumbs At Son's Home

Ernest Koss, 82, a resident of Outagamie-co for 71 years, and a former member of the Appleton city council and Outagamie-co board, died at 2:50 Sunday morning at the home of his son, Lawrence, 221 W. Brewster-st. after a three months' illness.

Born in Germany, he came to America at the age of two years, settling in Milwaukee. He came to Outagamie-co in 1881, and of the 71 years spent in this country, 35 were spent in Appleton. He operated the Koss Farm Implement business on W. College-ave from 1882 to 1887, and from 1890 to 1899 he was a partner in the Peterson and Koss Hardware store on W. College-ave. In 1898 and 1897 he served the city as alderman from the Sixth ward, and from 1912 to 1914 he was supervisor from the Sixth ward. He was a member of the Modern Woodmen of America.

Survivors are one daughter, Mrs. Jake G. Visser, Los Angeles, Calif.; four sons, William, Elmer, and Lawrence of Appleton; and Otto of North Long Beach, Calif.; 11 grandchildren and six great grandchildren. The body can be viewed at the Brettschneider Funeral home from Monday evening until 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, when funeral services will be conducted by the Rev. D. E. Bosserman of Trinity Lutheran church. Burial will be in St. John Lutheran cemetery, town of Center.

THREE INJURED IN AUTOMOBILE CRASH

Herschel Pagel, Miss Hazel Fischer, Miss Viola Kiefer Hurt

Herschel Pagel, 404 N. Richmond-st., and Hazel Fischer, 505 Washington-st., are in St. Elizabeth hospital, the former with a fractured pelvis and broken arm, as the result of an accident on Highway 41, east of Appleton, about 9 o'clock last night. Miss Fischer has a dislocated hip. The two were riding in the rumble seat of a roadster owned and driven by Charles Meizer, 745 W. Prospect-ave, which went out of control when a small car turned out from a driveway and collided with the roadster, sending it careening into the ditch, where it struck a telephone post and plunk and then turned over. Miss Viola Kiefer, 1229 W. Fourth-st., Appleton, was riding with Meizer in the front seat. She suffered minor bruises and was cared for at the hospital. She was discharged today. Meizer was uninjured. The car that caused Meizer's car to go into the ditch did not stop. The injured persons were extricated from the wreckage by Peter Van Oudenhoven of the sheriff's office and passersby and an ambulance was called.

BIRTHS

A son was born Saturday to Mr. and Mrs. Roy Anderson, 693 N. Drew-st., at St. Elizabeth hospital. A daughter was born Sunday to Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Jenkins, 13 Belmont-st., at St. Elizabeth hospital. A daughter was born Sunday to Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Treiben, 813 S. Mason-st., at St. Elizabeth hospital. A daughter was born Monday to Mr. and Mrs. Mark H. Percock, 513 W. Prospect-ave, at St. Elizabeth hospital. A daughter, Joan Carol, was born Thursday to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Strei, route 1, Hortonville.

MEDICAL SOCIETY TO MEET TUESDAY NIGHT

Two medical pictures will be shown at the November meeting of the Outagamie County Medical association at Hotel Northern Tuesday evening. A dinner at 6:30 will be followed by a business meeting and the presentation of the pictures. The films, "Anatomy of the Female Pelvis and Perineum" and "Vaginal Hysterectomy for Uterine Prolapse", will be shown by H. S. Howard of the Petrolator Laboratory of Chicago. Mr. Howard will discuss the pictures as they are thrown on the screen.

SECRET CONFAB BY COUNCIL ON ORIENT CRISIS

and adjourned to carry on its work of arbitration in private negotiations. Chairman Aristide Briand reviewed the council's efforts to restore peace during the last six weeks and said the delegates could best determine their course in private conversations.

American Ambassador Charles G. Dawes did not attend the session and remained in the background. The absence of Consul General Prentiss B. Gilbert, American observer in the previous session, was noticeable. Informal persons believed several days might elapse before another open meeting. It was understood the Japanese delegates are urging the council to give them several days to extend their efforts to get their troops back toward the railway zone. All afternoon General Dawes remained in his hotel suite and after the council adjourned had a long telephone conversation with Washington.

Meanwhile there was the usual crop of reports and rumors, one of which said General Dawes and certain leading figures on the council were discussing a plan which would make possible evacuation by Japanese troops and at the same time direct negotiations between China and Japan.

It was believed the Chinese would be asked to yield some ground but they would be compensated by some sort of international commission of inquiry or supervision in Manchuria.

(Copyright, 1931, Associated Press.)
Tientsin, China.—(P)—Chinese circles here today feared that hostilities on the biggest scale since the Manchurian dispute started would result from General Ma's rejection of a Japanese ultimatum demanding withdrawal of his troops to a point north of the Chinese Eastern railway.

Yesterday morning General Ma received a new communication from General Honjo, the Japanese commander, presenting on behalf of the Japanese government the following demands:

(1) That General Ma's troops be withdrawn northward from Tientsin and returned to their original stations.
(2) That in future the general's forces be forbidden to advance south of the Chinese Eastern railway.
(3) That the Chinese troops must not interfere with operation of the Tientsin-Ankang railway. (General Ma's financial) and that if they do the Japanese forces will immediately take "effective measures."

General Honjo stipulated that these conditions must be carried out within ten days, and that when they are the Japanese will consider withdrawing by noon today. A reply was requested by noon today.

MOTORIST WITHOUT LICENSES FINED $10

Harold Brautigan, Neenah, was fined $10 and costs by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court this morning when he was found guilty of operating a car without a license. Police were instructed to arrest Brautigan again in a week if he does not make application for a license by that time. He was arrested last Friday by Fred Arndt, motorcycle officer.

FIRE DAMAGES AUTO ON COUNTY TRUNK S

A Reo coupe, owned by Willard J. Riehl, route 6 Appleton, was almost completely destroyed by fire about noon Sunday on County Trunk S between County Trunk EE and State Trunk 47. The driver was unable to determine how the fire started but when he first noticed the flames they had made considerable headway. The sheriff's department was called and Edward Lutz, undersheriff, went to the scene with several hand fire extinguishers. The flames had made such headway, however, that little could be done.

ARTILLERY BAND TO PLAY TUESDAY NIGHT

The 1928 field artillery band will play another concert Tuesday evening at Lawrence Memorial chapel. Although the complete program has not yet been announced, Director Edward P. Mumma said the concert would feature Miss Clara Doves of Oshkosh as soloist. Two of the band numbers will be "Rosemary" by Schubert, and "Evolution of Tanks" Doodle. The band has never played either number here.

WOMAN GETS DIVORCE ON CRUELTY CHARGE

A divorce was granted by Judge Fred V. Heinemann in municipal court Saturday to Mrs. Pauline Weyland, 55 N. Baraboo-st., from her husband, John W. Weyland, 55, address unknown. Mrs. Weyland charged her husband was cruel and inhuman. The couple was married Nov. 28, 1929, and separated in September, 1931.

TROOP 6 SCOUTS ON HIKE TO RIFLE RANGE

Boy scouts of Troop 6 of St. Mary church took part in a hike to the rifle range of Co. D, 10th Infantry, Wisconsin National Guard, Friday night and Saturday. The hike was conducted by John Kerrigan, scoutmaster.

STATE TO SEND COUNTY WORKER TO CLUB MEETING

Miss Harriet Thompson, above, county home demonstration agent, has been chosen by T. L. Bewick, state club leader, to assist in taking charge of the Wisconsin delegation of 4-H club members at the national 4-H club congress in Chicago Nov. 28 to Dec. 4. Each year the state chooses a home demonstration agent and a county agricultural agent to attend the 4-H club congress and assist state workers in taking charge of the 4-H club members. Miss Thompson was notified today that she had been chosen this year.

ARTERIAL JUMPERS FINED $1 EACH

Two motorists were fined $1 and costs each by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court this morning when they pleaded guilty of jumping arterials. They were Elmer Reis, Seymour, and Joseph A. Liehl, 600 Third-st., Menasha. Both men were arrested at the corner of N. Richmond-st. and W. Wisconsin-ave by Officers Joseph Rankin and Earl Thomas.

Building Permits

Two building permits were issued Saturday by John N. Weiland, building inspector. They were granted to Mrs. A. Voigt, 121 E. College-ave, store front, cost $1,000; and Frank Parr, 1212 W. Oklahoma-st., residence, cost $3,000.

DEATHS

WALFRED GERLACH
Walfred Gerlach, 79, died Saturday evening at his home, 302 3/4 W. College-ave, after a short illness. Mr. Gerlach came to America from Bavaria, Germany, in 1883, settling in Appleton where he had lived ever since. He had been an employee of the Fox River Paper company for 28 years, retiring six years ago. Survivors are the widow, four daughters, Mrs. Anna Meyer, Milwaukee; Mrs. Frank W. Schneider, Oshkosh; Mrs. Ambrose Castana, Kenosha; and Mrs. A. M. Dohr, Peshtigo; one son, Carl, Appleton; 14 grandchildren and three great grandchildren. The funeral will be held at 3:30 Wednesday morning from the Wichmann Funeral home, with services at 9 o'clock at St. Joseph church. Burial will be in St. Joseph cemetery. The body can be viewed at the funeral home from Monday afternoon until the time of the funeral, and prayer services will be held at 7:30 Monday and Tuesday evenings.

ALICE HINTZ

The funeral of Alice Hintz, 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hintz, Black Creek, was held at 1:30 Sunday afternoon from the home, with services at 2 o'clock at St. John Lutheran church at Black Creek. The Rev. W. Joseph Schmidt was in charge, and burial was in Riverside cemetery. Bearers were cousins Edmond Harold Wiegand and Arthur and Willard Henke. Flower girls were Margaret, Ruth, Tone and Helen Hintz, and Ethel Henke.

SHELDON EISCH

The funeral of Sheldon Eisch, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Eisch, 1700 N. Richmond-st., will be held at 8:30 Tuesday morning from the Brettschneider Funeral home, with services at 9 o'clock at St. Theresa church. The Rev. M. A. Hauch will be in charge and burial will be in St. Joseph cemetery. The body can be viewed at the Brettschneider Funeral home until the time of the funeral.

JOHN HOLTZ

Funeral services for John Holtz, who died Saturday noon at his home at Kimberly, will be held at 1:30 Tuesday afternoon from the home, with services at 2 o'clock at St. Matthew church, Appleton. The Rev. Philip A. C. Froehke will be in charge, and burial will be in Riverside cemetery. Appleton. The body was taken from the Brettschneider Funeral home to the residence Sunday morning.

MRS. ELIZA WEBSTER

The time of the funeral services for Mrs. Eliza Marie Copeland Webster has been changed from 2:30 to 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Dr. J. A. Holmes will conduct the services at the home, 532 E. Pacific-st., and burial will be in Riverside cemetery. Bearers will be Dudley Rowell, Charles D. Thompson, Leonard Bushy, William Taylor, George Sweetman and W. B. Easing.

BOARD ADOPTS ROAD REPORT FOR NEXT YEAR

Approves Budget of $119,674—Approximately $117,000 Under Last Year

Reports of the county highway committee and the county highway commissioner, embodying recommendations for road work for 1932 with a budget of $119,674.35, were unanimously adopted by the county board this morning with little discussion. The board must now pass specific resolutions calling for individual appropriations recommended by the committee. These resolutions will be brought before the close of the session, which ends Saturday.

If the county board does not adopt resolutions calling for appropriations for road work, the recommendations by the highway committee and the highway budget for 1932 will be approximately $117,000 less than in 1931, when the total budget was $235,528.91. This saving was effected by cutting the usual two mill tax for road purposes to one mill for 1932. In addition an appropriation of $50,000 for snow removal and snow removal equipment in 1931 was eliminated from the budget in 1932. Last year the two mill tax totalled $175,600.78. This year the one mill tax will total $57,624.35.

The one mill tax next year is to be expended as follows: $30,000 for the maintenance and upkeep of the county garage, and $27,624.35 for the maintenance of county trunk highways.

Next year, in addition to the one mill tax, the board recommends four general appropriations. These are: $5,500 for county and town aid to the highways; $10,000 for the emergency road and bridge fund; $10,000; for improving County Trunk N in Little Chute, $10,000; for improving County Trunk Z in Kaukauna, $5,000.

Bond Payment Saving
In addition to the saving of $117,000 on the road budget the county is saving another $55,690 on its total 1932 budget by using $55,000 of state aid funds to meet payments on bonds coming due. This money ordinarily would have been used for road improvements.

In 1932, the road reports show, there will be $257,656.45 available to the county to state aid for work on the highways. This is an estimate as submitted by the state. The estimate includes the $55,000 item for payment of bonds. In addition the state will pay the entire cost of snow removal and drift prevention on state and federal trunk highways. The amount of this aid cannot be estimated. Last year the county received $251,647.93 from the state for aid on road work. This is $24,000 less than the amount available for 1932, without including any sum the county will receive for snow removal work.

The $257,656 to be given to the county by the state next year will be expended as follows: for improvement of county trunk highways, $52,972.82; for maintenance of state trunk highways, $68,500; for improvement of Highway 54, the Waupaca-Green Bay road, $50,983.63; for retirement of bonds issued for construction on state trunk highways in 1929, $10,000; and for snow removal and drift prevention, an amount sufficient.

The highway commissioner's report also included a full list of all expenditures made by the department during the last year. It also contained a complete report of all work accomplished during the year. Supervisor A. W. Laake expressed praise for the manner in which the highway department was operated during the past year. He called attention to many economies practiced by the highway committee in making purchases and declared that the committee has given the county an economical administration as was proved by its budget reduction.

It was brought to the board's attention by Arnold Krueger, chairman of the highway committee, that the highway budget has been cut more than $225,000 in two years. This is a reduction of almost 70 per cent.

FINE TRUCK DRIVER AFTER ONEIDA CRASH

George Pember, Madison, Pays $25 and Costs for Reckless Driving

Arrested after an automobile accident on County Trunk E near Oneida at 7:45 Sunday evening, George Pember, Madison truck driver, paid a fine of $25 and costs in municipal court Monday morning when arraigned before Judge Theodore Berg. The truck driver was arrested shortly after the crash by Sheriff John Lappen and Motorcycle Officer Peter Van Oudenhoven.

Pember, who drives a truck for the Perry Fess Construction Co., Madison, was going north on the highway when his machine collided with a car driven by John Staicka of Luxemburg. Staicka was accompanied by Edward and Michael Vanderveil and two small sons of the latter. The Vanderveils are from Oneida. No one was injured but the Staicka car was damaged when it tipped over into a ditch. The front end of the truck also was damaged.

GIVEN UNTIL FRIDAY TO GET AUTO LICENSE

Edmund Powless, town of Oneida, was given until Friday by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court this morning to make application for an automobile license. Powless was arraigned on charges of operating a car without either a driver's license or a car license. He was arrested by Peter Van Oudenhoven in the town of Oneida. Powless told the judge he just bought the car Saturday and had not yet had time to make application for the license. He also told the judge he had a driver's license, but that it was at home. He must report Friday and show his driver's license and also prove he made application for a car license.

PUBLIC HEARING ON PROPERTY TRANSFER

A public hearing on the transfer of property from the residential to the commercial and light manufacturing district will be held at city hall at 7:30 Tuesday evening. Nearby property owners are objecting to the transfer of lots on W. College-ave between Mason-st and Outagamie-st into the commercial district.

RAILROAD ASKS FOR CLEARANCE OF TRACKS HERE

City Officials Testify at Hearing About Construction of Wall

The application of the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad company for the clearance of its track near the Appleton Toy and Furniture company was heard before L. P. Atwood of the Public Service commission at city hall Monday morning. Testimony also was taken in the application of the railroad company to substitute a caretaker for the station agent at Sugar Bush.

Mayor John Goodland, Jr., and L. M. Schindler, city engineer, were called to the witness stand to tell why the Law-st hill retaining wall had been built so close to the tracks. The two city officials explained that when the wall was built they were not cognizant with the law providing that a wall be built a certain distance from railroad tracks. The wall, on the east side of the Law-st hill and the north side of Newberry-st, had to be built after the grade of the hill was changed to keep the fill from rolling onto the tracks, they pointed out. The engineer claimed that the wall is farther away from the tracks than the factory building, and said that the wall had been built at its present distance from the tracks to provide greater width to Newberry-st.

H. M. Kahr, of the toy factory described the method of spotting cars on the tracks in question. Counsel for the two railroad organizations registered objections to the present wall in its present location. It was suggested that if the wall remains as it is the city should be asked to enter into an indemnity agreement with the railroad to take care of any accidents which may arise from the proximity of the wall to the tracks.

In the Sugar Bush hearing railroad representatives explained that the change would effect a considerable saving, and residents in that territory maintained that the substitution would be inconvenient.

SHOWERS PREDICTED FOR NEXT 24 HOURS

Although the weatherman predicted rain for the weekend, Appleton residents enjoyed an ideal weather. The weatherman predicted a moderate temperatures prevailing. Fall weather was reported over most of the middle west Sunday. If the weatherman's predictions materialize, rough weather will prevail tonight and showers will fall, he says. Mild weather will continue. Winds are shifting in the south and southeast. At 6 o'clock Monday morning the mercury registered 45 degrees above zero, and at noon it registered 50 degrees above.

BEG PARDON

In Saturday's issue of the Post-Crescent there appeared an article saying that Henry Mitchell, Appleton, had been found guilty of a statutory offense by a jury in municipal court Friday. This was an error. The name should have been Lester Mitchell.

ARCHERY, TENNIS, BASEBALL COMPETE WITH TINY GOLF BALL

Whiteland.—(P)—A golf foursome which looked like a Scotsman's nightmare yesterday plodded over the grass of the municipal links.

L. G. Sorden, county agent, was a conventional golfer, carrying clubs and balls.

J. M. Reed, Oneida-co schools superintendent, used tennis balls and a racquet.

L. A. Rumsey, director of the city vocational school, took off with bow and arrow.

Norman Davis, register of deeds, came out with a baseball and bat, determined to sock a birdie.

The strangely assorted foursome played nine holes, and low and arrow won with a card of 37. The tennis ball was second with 53, and next came the baseball with 64. The golf ball trailed with 67.

That wailing back of the clubhouse came from the club professional who was tearing out his hair by the handful.

INJUNCTION DENIED AGAINST CHIROPRACTOR

Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court late last week refused a temporary injunction restraining Dr. Robert Larsen, D. C., from practicing at his office at 106 W. College-ave. The injunction was brought by Dr. A. Denil, 123 W. College-ave, who claimed that he purchased Dr. Larsen's business about a year ago and that the contract provided that Dr. Larsen was not to practice again in Appleton for five years. Attorneys for Larsen pleaded that the contract was unenforceable because Dr. Denil had purchased the business from Mrs. Larsen and not from him. He also charged that Denil failed to fulfill the original contract by defaulting $750 on payment.

DRIVER CUTS FINGER IN CRASH ON STREET

Ernest Schumacker, 32, 1310 S. Madison-st., suffered a cut on the little finger of the right hand about 8:30 Sunday evening when the car he was driving crashed into a parked machine at 1125 S. Madison-st. Schumacker was driving north when his car struck the parked machine, which is owned by Steve Schneider. Schumacker's car was badly damaged and a fender and bumper on Schneider's car were damaged.

SENTENCED TO JAIL IN DEFAULT OF $10 FINE

Paul Petrick, 539 N. Durkee-st, was sentenced to the county jail for five days by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court this morning when he was unable to pay a fine of $10 and costs for drunkenness. Petrick was arrested about 10:40 Saturday night at his home by Officer Earl Thomas.

POLICE COMMISSION MEETS THIS EVENING

The police and license committee will meet at city hall at 7:30 Monday evening. They will discuss the application for a Class A permit from Norman A. Walton, 117 S. State-st, and the request to have a Class A permit transferred from 605 to 614 W. College-ave.

Mr. and Mrs. Max C. Helm, Philadelphia, Pa., are visiting friends and relatives in Appleton for a few days.

Selecting the Casket

THE casket is, ordinarily, the largest single item of expense in the cost of a funeral. Probably no other purchase involving a like sum of money must be decided on in so short a period of time.

There are many different types of caskets, made from many different materials. Many different manufacturers make them. They sell at many different prices. To purchase a casket so high in price that it will mean future denial to widow, children or other heirs is misguided sentimentality. On the other hand, there is a certain standard of living to which each is accustomed. To fall below this—unless for urgent need of economy—is just as deplorable as the other extreme.

BADGERS SPLIT ON EDUCATION BODY FOR U. S.

New Department Favored in Report With Additional Secretary

BY RUBY A. BLACK
(Post-Crescent's Washington Correspondent)

Washington—Wisconsin people on the president's national advisory committee on education split on the question of recommending a federal department of education with a secretary of education in the president's cabinet.

This body contested question was taken up by the committee two years ago. It was thought at the time of the appointment of the 51 people on the committee that the personnel indicated opposition to the proposal, which has been before congress for a decade. The report of the committee, made public Saturday, shows that by a vote of 48 to 11, with the two American Federation of Labor members, President William Green and Vice president Matthew Woll, not voting, shows that it recommended formation of such a federal department, to be purely for research and information service and to foster cooperation with and among the states on education matters.

R. L. Cooley, director of the Milwaukee Vocational school committee, voted against the recommendation, and Miss Lita Bene, formerly of the University of Wisconsin, now of the Ladies' Home Journal, voted for it.

The Catholic members made a minority report opposing the proposal for a federal department.

Question of Funds

In addition to recommending the federal department of education, coordinating all present federal educational functions, the committee, named by the president in 1929, recommended repeal of the provisions of the Smith-Hughes act and subsequent educational acts which require state matching of federal funds and federal approval of state plans and standards which give federal officials authority to withhold funds. This would remove all federal control over the use of federal aid for vocational education, leaving the use of these funds entirely to the states. The Negro members of the committee filed a minority report opposing state administration of any federal funds without federal control because they fear that Negro schools in the 18 states which have separate schools for the race would not get their fair supply if the question is left to the states.

The Catholic members, Rt. Rev. Edward J. Pace, vice rector of Catholic University of America here, and Rev. George Johnson, secretary of the Catholic Educational association, opposed the formation of a federal department of education on the grounds that it is not necessary and that it would "inevitably bring about centralization and federal control of education." Their minority report also said:

"That the point of view of the department and its secretary would always express 'enlightened public opinion' is a gratuitous assumption. The secretary would be a political appointee and would respond to the pressure and be amenable to the wishes of the political party in power. A strongly organized group, even though it might represent a minority point of view in education, could be in a strong enough position to influence the administration in favor of a larger measure of federal control. It would not be difficult to demonstrate the political advantages of an educational bureaucracy."

"Pluralized" Control

The majority, in recommending the department with a cabinet member close to the president, in charge said:

"The lack of such an official spokesman for education, competent and influentially situated in the government, has been one of the conditions, and a major condition, which has permitted us to drift into our present dilemma where a nation, by tradition and experience opposed to the federalized administration of education, has in fact developed a pluralized federal control of education in the states through various federal agencies, which are not even coordinated in their efforts."

The majority recommendation specifies that the proposed federal department "have no legal or financial power and no regulatory or executive authority, direct or indirect, explicit or implied, by which it may control the social purposes and specific processes of education."

It should be purely a department for research and the dissemination of information and for coordinating the various education agencies, the majority recommended.

The Catholic minority asserted that the department would be a political institution and "would not be a purely trustworthy as an agency for research and dissemination of information. The political bias and commitments of the administration would color its findings and propaganda rather than truth would result."

Politically, the movement for a federal department is today less favorably situated than it was last year, despite the recommendation of the president's committee. The chief advocate of the bill, Rep. Daniel A. Reed of New York, will be supplanted as chairman of the House

JOURNALISM FRAT TO MAKE SIX AWARDS

Minneapolis—(AP)—Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity, opening its 17th annual convention here today, will make six awards during the coming year for scholarly attainment in the field of journalism.

This was decided by the executive council of the organization, in a pre-convention meeting. Selection of the awards will be made by a jury of men prominent in journalism, to be named by the council.

The council decided to appoint a permanent committee on research in journalism.

Make Parks Ready For Cold Months

With trees almost barren and the ground covered with brown leaves, Appleton parks are about ready for the snowfall that will definitely end their season. Under the direction of Phillip Kreutzer, Sr., superintendent of parks, workers are raking up leaves and preparing the parks for their winter silence. During the winter Mr. Kreutzer will keep only one employee, who will keep sidewalks shoveled, comfort stations warm, and the parks in a tidy condition.

Major improvements during the summer were restricted to Alicia and Erb park. A rock garden was built at Alicia park, and the tourist building was moved south about 300 feet, in order to provide a better view of the park for those who use the porch. The tourist camp at Alicia, abandoned last spring, was used by picnickers instead of campers. At Erb park a wading pool for youngsters was installed, at a cost of about $1,000.

Jones park, which is primarily a winter playground, will soon be put in readiness for skating and hockey. Lights in all parks except Jones, where illumination is needed for skating, have been turned out. No major improvements are planned for the parks for next year, as an attempt will be made to keep park expenses down to a minimum during the period of depression.

FLASHES OF LIFE

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Abad, Okla.—(AP)—The storm arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Draper yesterday, automatically releasing the state to launch efforts to electrocute the father. Draper, charged with killing three persons in a holdup, had bargained to facilitate prosecution by signing a confession if the law would delay his trial until his baby was born.

Northampton, Mass.—(AP)—The faculty of Smith college doesn't want to be bothered with questions from solicitous parents about their offspring. A new rule book distributed among 554 freshmen asked the students to "answer parents' inquiries about life at Smith. The president hasn't time to fill out questionnaires."

Harrisburg, Pa.—(AP)—Because a wise fowl knows his own roost three chicken thieves are under arrest. Disposal of chickens by the trio closely followed the reported robbing of William Glass' henhouse but Glass could not positively identify the fowl. Police freed the birds and they made a bee-line for Glass' roost.

EASIEST WAY TO BREAK UP A COLD

Millions Say of This Proved Way

Works Fast—Makes You Feel Like a New Person Before
You Know It

If you want quick relief from a cold, go back to first principles and use something you know does the business—don't start "trying" a lot of fancy ideas or remedies. Even a "little" cold is too dangerous to take chances on.

Get Hill's Cascara Quinine. A scientific formula made to ONE THING WELL—to knock a cold in a jiffy, not to cure a hundred different things.

Take two tablets every three hours. Drink lots of water between times—that's all. Soon those mean, aching pains in head and body begin to go; the cold breaks up; poisons leave your system. Almost before you know it, you feel like a new person.

If it doesn't do that, your money back. Get a box now. You'll be surprised at the speed with which it works. Costs only a few cents.

PROGRAM OUTLINED BY FARMERS UNION

Organization Lists Proposals for Congress at National Convention

Des Moines, Iowa—(AP)—A change in legislative policies on farm relief, the farm board and stabilization of the dollar will be sought by the Farmers' union in national convention here this week.

The convention will be preceded tonight by a banquet at which Gov. William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray of Oklahoma, Gov. Dan Turner of Iowa, and Congressman Louis T. McFadden of Pennsylvania, will speak. Formal sessions will begin Tuesday.

John A. Simpson of Oklahoma City, national president of the union, has concurred in a legislative policy adopted by the corn belt committee for ten midwestern states which presented six major demands, condemned the farm board and the present administration and warned

MUST CARRY LIGHTS ON WAGONS AT NIGHT

A warning has been issued by Frank Appleton, highway commissioner, to farmers who drive along the road at night with horse-drawn vehicles. Mr. Appleton warned that such vehicles must carry lights, under the state law, and that to fail to do so subjects the offender to arrest. Mr. Appleton said that the county motorcycle officers had called attention to several instances where accidents have occurred as a result of the failure of the farmers to have a light on their wagons.

The "two great political parties" that in the coming presidential contest "they will completely ignore the lines of partisan division in the achievement of this objective."

Chief of the demands in the corn belt policy are: Complete "equality for agriculture; investigation of the farm board and subsidiaries; amendment of the agricultural marketing act to restrict the farm board's curtailment of farm board funds; an income tax high enough to pay expenses of government, and an inheritance tax to "break up the big fortunes."

Russian Prince Is Given Character Part In Film

BY JESSIE HENDERSON
(Copyright, 1931 by Cons. Press)

Hollywood—(CPA)—When director Dorothy Arzner asked the casting director to send her an actor who could play the role of a fashionable performer, she got a real prince. His name is David Mir.

At the time when David Mir's father was governor general of the Crimea, the young prince had no inkling that some day he himself would appear as a character in Hollywood. His first cousin is the prince who assassinated Rasputin and his aunt by marriage is a sister of the late czar.

How David Mir happened to reach Hollywood and the screen is a story so adventurous that it reads like the plot of a film. Born into a family of great wealth, the heir to enormous estates and destined for a high post under the imperial government, David Mir had never been trained to earn a living.

At the age of 15 he entered upon a military career, and served in the imperial army until the collapse of the czarist government. With this collapse came a change in David Mir's fortunes as complete as any scenario has ever invented. His father and brothers perished during the revolution. After heart-breaking hardships, the young prince with his mother and sister succeeded in reaching Paris.

There is a handsome Russian refugee colony in Hollywood. David Mir has dramatic aptitude. So he came to the cinema capital and by that journey incidentally proved that even the wildest films are not exaggerated.

Philadelphia—(AP)—Passengers on Philadelphia's new street cars might be wise to study the conductor well ahead of their destination if they don't want to risk shooting past the New scramble cars capable of putting 150 miles per hour have been put into service between Philadelphia and Norristown.

ST. PAUL MAN SLAIN FROM AMBUSCADE

St. Paul—(AP)—Apparently tired or walking into an ambush, Walter Murphy, 27, of St. Paul, was shot and killed in a rear room of a cigar store here last night. Three shots struck him.

Police arrested five men, including the proprietor and clerk for questioning. The authorities were investigating a report that Murphy was connected with a gambling racket.

STOPPING WASTAGE
Opinions have varied widely concerning the feasibility of Senator LaFollette's bill to create an American Economic Council composed of a number of first-rate business minds who would endeavor to remove unemployment and adjust production to consumption, although solely through advice.

A. H. Wiggin, president of the great Chase National Bank does not think much of the proposal. Said he:
"A man only lives so many years, and his experience only lasts with him so many years. New generations succeed and they will make the same blunders in the next generation and succeeding generations as were made in the first. Business crises like the present one will inevitably recur. There is no commission or any brains in the world that can prevent it."

Which, in its black despair, says the Outlook and Independent is "equivalent to saying that every man must learn for himself every day not to pet rattle snakes."

On the other hand the president of General Motors, Mr. Sloan, declared that "We have to make a start some time and some place and this would be a good one."

If we were to select a few of the most obvious blunders that have been made in the field of business as well as that of investment, and the two are closely interlocked, it would be easily seen that such a council even clothed only with the right to give advice might prove itself of indispensable value.

One of the weaknesses in the American system is to overdo, to greatly overdo. As soon as any industry becomes profitable the numbers that enter it increase in amazing style. If a manufacturer of toothpicks appears to be making a good profit the number of toothpick plants springing up becomes so great that by overproduction, profit is all or nearly all removed and the entire industry is jeopardized. This in turn jeopardizes the safety of employment in that industry and the safety of investment for the bond and stock holders.

The same thing has been clear for long in the matter of investments of which a situation at Detroit is a conspicuous example. One security house had only to suggest the advisability of building a bridge to the Canadian side to have another security house undertake the construction of a tunnel.

Neither of these ventures could succeed unless they could sell to the people stocks, bonds or debentures. The construction of both in reality created millions of weak, hazardous investment. America simply overdid again.

With an economic council that would carefully get at the facts, ascertain the amount of freight and the number of passengers reasonably to be expected, carefully estimate the expense of operation and show the public that if both ventures went on neither would likely succeed, great sums might have been saved. And an identical procedure followed in plant extension or addition would tend to save the great wastage evident everywhere in the country and caused largely by duplication.

Since the constitution will not presently permit the force of law to be used to prevent these costly and tragic overlappings, the force of the facts, honestly gathered and widely published would prevent these duplications because they cannot be made without a wide support from the public in the purchase of the securities they must issue.

Thus the investor would be saved his investment, the worker already employed would be assured of steady employment and the unemployed worker would eventually find something steady instead of getting into an employment unsteady for himself and making it unsteady for others.

Unless someone has a better plan to submit the proposal of a national economic council should not be defeated merely because flaws may be found in it. The test of value in any proposal is not in its failure to reach perfection but whether there is something better to take its place.

nomie council should not be defeated merely because flaws may be found in it. The test of value in any proposal is not in its failure to reach perfection but whether there is something better to take its place.

BLAMING THE DEAD
It is not often in Wisconsin that accused persons, particularly those charged with major offenses, may put their tongue in cheek at their ability "to put one over on the jury."

But Arvin Anderson who shot and killed a girl in Milwaukee and jauntily expressed great happiness when the jury found him guilty of second degree murder only, seems to have been such a one.

Reciting all the evidence, the admitted facts which showed premeditation upon the killer's part and therefore guilt of murder in the first degree, Judge Shaughnessy disposed of his plea for clemency with the statement, "You proved when you took the stand and told a story replete with exaggeration that you did not have the love for the dead girl that you professed. That girl wasn't as bad as you pictured her on the stand. She couldn't have been."

In civil cases the law does not permit a person to prove an agreement or transaction with the dead unless third parties were present. It recognizes the great and unavoidable danger of such a practice. Indeed, were it permissible, the estates of deceased persons would be frittered away entirely in the payment of fictitious claims filed by those who were willing to swear to the indebtedness, knowing that no one lived to deny it.

But in criminal cases a different situation is presented and the person accused of crime is not held back by any such rule.

That is why it behooves jurors to exercise all the more care in weighing and analyzing stories told concerning the dead and in the knowledge that mild manners of the witness may cover over as vicious a disposition as "ever scuttled a ship or cut a throat."

To have been the cause of removing a person from the earth and then to profit by the fact of removal in that the person can never tell his or her side of the story is the creation of a situation that cannot be permitted to slide easily by.

DOWLING IS THE NAME
L. Gregory Dowling is a name that should not be forgotten.

Dowling is one of those fighters against the wrong who doesn't care a snap about the odds against him.

He thinks in terms of that American sergeant who in leading a charge declared, "Who in Halifax wants to live forever?" only he didn't say Halifax.

Dowling, at twenty-seven, is vice president of a bank in St. Louis and the other day he found himself facing two robbers, each with drawn pistol.

Their directions to hold up hands fell on dumb ears.

Dowling ran for his gun.

Crack went the bandit pistols. Dowling was struck in the hand but the blow of the frassile knocked him down. The strength of his courage pulled him up and bang went his own gun.

The steadier nerve of the man in the right directed the shot straighter. One bandit lay dead but the other bandit continued to fire and again Dowling went down, shot in the right leg. And again he came up like a jumping-jack. This time the remaining bandit went down shot in the lung but he continued to fire and again Dowling bit the dust, but Dowlingwise came back on his feet again.

Dowling will live.

We need the Dowlings.

In fact it would be a craven world without them.

IL DUCE
People who complain about the present conditions have very little conception of what might have been the state of affairs had Benito Mussolini not developed within Italy a national rather than an individual conscience. Prior to the evolution of Fascism as a political doctrine the country was not even the enjoyment of the constant views and the Communists and other disaffected organizations had begun to dream of their pre-fascist theories throughout the land. Against these trends, Benito Mussolini, welded loyal opinion in the Fascist party and erected a barrier to corrupt and disintegrating practices.

Today, under the new regime, even agriculture has become more productive, as if Nature herself smiled upon the better order. Transportation and other public facilities have greatly improved; mercantile shipping has been increased; and the sons of Italy prefer to remain within her boundaries rather than to emigrate to foreign shores. In these days Italians place the interests of their country above their private desires and projects. Criticism of Il Duce, even in foreign lands, is no longer hostile—Rome (Italy) H. Messenger.

ANOTHER OPEN LETTER TO THE C. E.

Monday Morning
Dear C. E.:
We know what you are probably going to say to us so we will answer your questions before you can ask them, thereby saving you quite a bit of trouble. We hope you appreciate what we are doing for you. You see, we remember that we were going to write the column yesterday afternoon, but yesterday afternoon found us in the melancholy mood and in no mental condition to write the kind of column you'd like to edit.

So, C. E., we decided to postpone it until this morning when, brightened by the November sunshine and full of ambition for the week we could produce something full of good cheer and clean fun. So we hope you see we were acting in the interests of the Post-Crescent.

Yrs.
P. S. That was a nice trimming the Cardinals gave the Packers yesterday. The radio was quite clear.

The Expert Had a Narrow Squeak

In his weekend predictions, he hit nine winners, one tie and four losses out of fourteen games prophesied. The attendance predictions were pretty close but he was off on the weather. To date, he has picked 51 winners, been wrong 13 times and had four ties. Six of the games last weekend were decided one way or the other by just one touchdown. One was decided by the extra-point kick. In only seven games was the score convincing.

The New York News—one of the tabloid sheets you've heard so much about—has suddenly gone respectable. (The News is owned by the Chicago Tribune.) It did away with keyhole peeping, juicy details of divorces, murders and such were left out. Rumored reason: the publisher saw a tabloid newspaper movie—one that played in Appleton not long ago—and made the change so people wouldn't think his tabloid was like the movie tabloid. Dunno. S'good story anyhow.

Just Folks
By Edgar A. Guest

THE BUSY LIFE
The busy life is happier far
Than that of idleness and ease;
Though sweat the joys of comfort are
They swiftly lose their power to please.
A goal to gain; a task to do;
Some useful purpose while we live,
Whether the skies be gray or blue,
Hold thrills that nothing else can give.
For what has comfort to bestow
To equal that high sense of pride
Of those who suffer many a blow
Refusing to be thrust aside?
Beset by all the odds of doubt
And fearing much but braving all,
Men choose to work their problems out
And earn their glory, great or small.
And what has pleasure to compare
With that delight of doing things,
That sense of satisfaction rare
Which every hard achievement brings?
Though weariness may cause a sigh
And heavy may the burdens be,
When the dark days have all gone by
The sweeter is the victory.

Looking Backward

TEN YEARS AGO
Monday, Nov. 14, 1921

Sensational charges of a conspiracy to coerce and intimidate him were made by Governor John J. Blaine that morning at a hearing being held before him on a complaint of dereliction of duty against Sheriff Hans Rodol of Oneida.

Nelson Nutting, Earl E. Foster and H. J. Schmidt were rabbit hunting at Nichols the previous Sunday.

The marriage of Miss Effie Peters, daughter of Mrs. Mary Peters, 535 N. Division-st., to Otto Wiley, 909 Harrison-st., took place at 12 o'clock that day at Trinity English Lutheran church.

Donald Fraxley and Clarence Kemphert had returned to Milwaukee where they were attending Marquette University after spending the weekend in Appleton.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Tennis, Jr., returned the preceding Saturday from trip to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. E. DeFoe, Chicago, were visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Searls, 810 Center-st.

Miss Hazel O'Connell spent the weekend with friends at Wausau.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
Monday, Nov. 19, 1906

A marriage license was issued the previous Saturday to Giuseppe Herffelt and Clara Blesman, both of Appleton.

William Van Dusen had returned from a week's visit with friends and relatives at Milwaukee.

Mrs. Victor P. Marshall left for Chicago that week to spend two weeks with friends and relatives.

Miss Rose Langer left the previous day for Fond du Lac where she was to spend two weeks as the guest of friends and relatives.

William and Charles Scheer and Henry Gossen returned from two rivers where they had been engaged during the previous ten days in decorating the interior of St. Mary Catholic church.

Justin Wells entertained the previous Saturday at his home an entertainment in honor of his birthday and anniversary.

Personal Health Talks
By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

ARTIFICIAL RESPIRATION

A service station has a gadget for inflating tires that strongly appeals to the machine minded public, including yours truly. It is called an air scale, and the clerk asks what pressure you'd like today in this or that tire, sets the scale at the desired pressure and turns on the air. Then a little whistle blows intermittently till the pressure in the tire reaches the point desired. Some day the whistle is going to get stopped up or out of order and a somebody's car is going to make an accession. Just the same I'll lung clear across town to get to that station anytime, the machine is so fascinating.

Prof. Vandell Henderson, our greatest authority on artificial respiration, rather grudgingly, as it seems to me, admits that it is well to have the victim's arms extended well above the head when you're administering the prone-pressure method, which is the best known way to restore breathing. But he doesn't think my contention is so hot—I contend the Red Cross trick of placing one of the victim's hands under his head is wrong, as it tends to prevent the drainage of any water from the breathing passages.

Prof. Henderson believes a little water in the lungs wouldn't matter anyhow, as he says it is quickly absorbed anyway. I wish the Professor had said so three years ago when the Red Cross and associated organizations were still teaching the jack-knife stunt—lifting the victim with your grasp around his middle, for the alleged purpose of emptying the water from his lungs before you began to get ready to start to commence the artificial respiration.

Maybe the Professor hesitated to speak out about it then because so many Red Cross victims were dying from the few moments delay in the application of restorative measures. It is bad form to make unseemly noises when folks are dying.

Now Dr. W. W. Babcock of Philadelphia gives some suggestions based on his surgical experience, for the emergency treatment of failure of respiration in the course of an operation. The simplest method is compression of the chest. If that fails to give immediate results, then Dr. Babcock advocates mouth-to-mouth insufflation, with a towel or a few layers of gauze over the patient's mouth, which is kept open by a gag and the operator's right hand making pressure over the upper abdomen, so that the stomach will not fill with air, and the left hand compressing patient's nostrils. Then the operator takes a deep breath and blows into the patient's mouth till the chest is seen to inflate. Then operator raises his head, air escapes from the chest, and then he blows again. This method has saved life in several cases, Dr. Babcock says.

He condemns the pulmotor as dangerous. Mouth-to-mouth insufflation is safe. It is a potent means of saving lives when other methods have failed. With mouth-to-mouth insufflation you cannot produce excessive pressure in the lungs except with an infant or young child.

I doubt whether the pressure on the abdomen is necessary or helpful. I don't believe air could be blown into the stomach that way. I think the belly should be allowed to expand as air is blown into the chest. It does normally expand with inspiration. But maybe I'd better not say much about it in for Prof. Henderson may feel it wouldn't matter anyhow, as a little air in the stomach is soon absorbed.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Philosophical Solution

I am 48 and have had superfluous hair since I was 18. I've tried out peroxide, pumice, depilatory pastes, electrolysis, and even an electric contrivance for home use. I find the tweezers most satisfactory, extracting only the most noticeable hairs as they appear, and thus rubbing could cream into the skin. On my arms I use wax after every bath, about once a week. I have learned to regard this problem philosophically. If a man must give so much time to shaving, a woman may take even less time for a similar purpose. After all these years the growth seems no heavier, and I believe if I had used nothing else but the peroxide from the beginning the growth would have gradually become less troublesome. (Mrs. W. G.)

Answer—Thank you. Some women do find a little daily rubbing with a piece of fine pumice stone a satisfactory way to keep superfluous hair down. They say this is no more irritating than shaving.

Ear and Nose Protection
A swimming instructor says that so-called Venus ear plugs (made of rubber) and a metal nose clip with channels wrapped around each end so that metal will not touch the skin, may be worn with comfort by those swimming in pools and he believes this precaution protects patrons of pools from many ear and sinus infections. The nose clip at first seems uncomfortable, but if one first applies a film of petroleum to the nostrils, and keeps the mouth open for breathing, it is soon comfortable.

Answer—Thus armored, the swimmer may feel reasonably safe, provided he does not take any water into the mouth.

Angio-Neurotic Edema
Would it be worth while for one to try calcium lactate for recurring hives, whooping hives? (Mrs. S. H. W.) One doctor called it angio-neurotic edema!

Answer—It would do no harm anyway. The term angio-neurotic edema, which we doctors use for giant hives, is just a lot of hawwle, you understand.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY WILLIAM GAINES

New York — The chestnut vendors are with us again, the pleasant aroma of roasted nuts perfuming many a Manhattan corner.

No one who ever saw "The Auctioneer," with David Warfield, ever sees a chestnut merchant without thinking of that delightful bit of acting by the late Tony Bevan.

Off stage, Bevan was Warfield's companion, looking after the star with all the concern a mother exhibits toward her child.

Lucrezia Bori, the soprano, came back from Europe the other day, mourning the loss of her dog, Rowdy.

While abroad she missed the companionship of Rowdy and had him sent to her. In Switzerland, the pup couldn't stand the cold and contracted pneumonia.

Bori had the dog cremated and brought back the ashes to be buried on her estate.

Bargain Rack

The financial plight of many of the elite clothing shops in the wealthier shopping districts has proved a money-making boom for less scrupulous merchants from the bargain sections.

Should one of the well known stores find itself in a position where there is nothing to do except quit, the chances are that its stock and quarters will be taken over by one of the dry goods boys from downtown.

The goods from the swanky counters are set up for sale at slashed prices and customers congratulate themselves that they are getting quality clothes with so little damage to the bank roll.

What the customers don't know is that sifted among the good bargains are a number of garments of inferior quality which have been brought up to the sale—and that their "sale price" actually is much more than their true worth. It is simply a variation of putting the biggest and best strawberries on top of the basket.

Financier's Frenzy

A Wall street broker, dizzy from the fluctuations of the ticker tape, collapsed in his counting room, and was carried to a hospital.

Two women came to visit him at what the English refer to as the nursing home. His physician murmured when they demanded admittance, but one of the women was persistent.

"I must see him," she insisted. "I am his sister."

"That interests me," the other retorted. "You see, I am his mother."

Be that as it may, Cantor Rosenblatt, we are assured, has composed some of his most impressive melodies in the bathtub.

And they are saying now that a film actress' recent run-in with immigration authorities was engineered for publicity purposes, paving the way for an attempted movie comeback.

Then there's the restless Mr. Charles Columbus, who seems to be having a time discovering where he belongs.

Within a couple of weeks he was with three vaudevilles' acts, headed, respectively, by Mae Murray, Harriett Hootor and Florence O'Den-shawn.

Mayor Cermak is boosting Chicago for the Democratic party. With Monsieur Capone in durance vile, something just had to be done.

If your salary's been cut at the office... it's raised again in these Overcoats

We're determined to keep that dollar of yours above par in buying value . . . so when you're cut . . . we cut.

This o'coat display is for the men who haven't been feeling any too rosy lately and who would, for two cents, try and get along with their old garments . . . altho' goodness knows, these old coats are a sight.

EXPERT EXPLAINS SURPLUS ROLE IN BALANCE SHEETS

Presents Examples of Two Methods Used in Preparing Statements

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES
Copyright, 1931, by Cons. Press
New York—Having explained the form under which a balance sheet is constructed, in the preceding article in this series, it is now in order to look a little closer into exactly what makes a surplus. The point is important because we hear in these days so many comments to the effect that this or that corporation could continue to pay dividends because they have so large a surplus.
Sometimes that is true and sometimes it is untrue. For example, take the following imaginary balance sheets:

Assets
Plant	$40,000,000
Inventories	5,000,000
Bills Receivable	2,000,000
Cash	3,000,000
	$50,000,000
Liabilities
Capital Stock	$10,000,000
Bills Payable	2,000,000
Surplus	7,000,000
	$50,000,000

The surplus in the foregoing is available, in part at least, for dividends if the directors see fit to declare them. There is cash enough on the asset side to cover all the bills payable, leaving receipts from bills receivable and from liquidation of inventories, as and when effected, available for other purposes. Now look at this arrangement:

Assets
Plant	$47,000,000
Inventories	1,000,000
Bills Receivable	1,000,000
Cash	1,000,000
	$50,000,000
Liabilities
Capital Stock	$40,000,000
Bills Payable	3,000,000
	$43,000,000

The second supposititious corporation has exactly the same surplus that the first one has, namely, $7,-

Surplus	7,000,000	000,000	But the second corporation	liquidation of all the inventories
	$50,000,000		is in no position to use that surplus	just to meet the bills payable. The for dividends or anything else. It	surplus is invested entirely in the

Professor J. L. Tembe of the economics department of Lawrence college has developed a statistical laboratory which is expected to be of great value to students of economics. Professor Tembe spent a great deal of time last summer and this fall in securing bulletins and statistics from the federal and state bureaus of census, statistics, federal reserve, bureau of labor, trade commission reports, duties, review reports of the controller of currency, Bureau of statistics, reports of the service commission and of the interstate commerce commission.

It is believed that the laboratory is already equal to the task of completing the work of this year and winter, after which it was plan-

No wonder

It's the NEW
MAYTAG

AT $79⁵⁰

Already thousands of women have seen and examined the new Maytag washer.

They're enthusiastic! And no wonder. This new Maytag, with its smooth working countersunk Gyrator—its dirt removing sediment zone—its sturdy, silent oil-packed drive—its extra large roll, divided wringer—its vibrationless rubber-mounted motor—its countless quality features and hidden refinements, is no ordinary washer.

And yet the price is far below that of "second choice" washers.

The Maytag idea of quality—the idea of extra care in making the hidden parts—has made Maytag the biggest name in the washing machine business.
And it is that same quality that makes this new Maytag a revolutionary value at the price.

See it. Visit the nearest Maytag showroom and see the New Maytag in action.

WHY
do more and more smokers say:

"I've changed to Chesterfield"

BECAUSE...

THEY'RE MILD. It's the tobacco! The best tobacco—the smoothest and mildest that money can buy—go into Chesterfield. Ripened and sweetened in the sunshine... cured by the farmer... then aged for two years in wooden hogsheads. No wonder you say, "They're so much milder!"

THEY TASTE BETTER. These mild smooth tobaccos are put together exactly right. That's Chesterfield's secret—but millions of smokers agree that the job couldn't be improved! Rich aroma of Turkish and mellow sweetness of Domestic, blended and cross-blended to Chesterfield's own BETTER TASTE.

THEY'RE PURE. Cleanliness and purity, always! Everything that goes into Chesterfield is tested by expert chemists... tested thoroughly. The purest cigarette paper made, burning without taste or odor. Sanitary manufacture... no hands touch your Chesterfields. They're as pure as the water you drink!

THEY SATISFY. You break open a clean, tight-sealed package.
You light up a well-filled cigarette. Yes, sir... you're going to like this cigarette—you know that with your very first puff. And right there's where many a smoker changes to Chesterfield. They Satisfy!

The Story of Sue

MARGERY HALE
© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

HOURS after she had gone to sleep, or so it seemed to Sue, she awakened. Quickly. As though something were going to happen. She didn't move. She could hear Jack's breathing, steady and regular. But through the room she had a sense that something moved. Something mysterious and terrifying.

She tried to open her eyes but she couldn't. They felt heavy. She was afraid of what she would see when they were opened.

She wanted to scream but she had a fear that if she did the unseen monster, whatever it was, would suddenly jump.

If she could just reach out her hand and snap on the lamp at the table that stood by the bed, perhaps the rose warmth of the light would drive away the nameless terror of the night. But she couldn't. Something cold and clammy might grasp her hand.

Outside the wind suddenly wailed through the trees. A bare branch struck a window. She stifled a scream and then wondered why she stifled it when she wanted to scream. Afraid perhaps of unseen fingers at her throat.

"Maybe I'm still asleep. May be it's a nightmare," she told herself. If she could just call Jack. Could waken him without fearing that he would make some sort of outcry that would bring the danger to a point? But he would ask her what was wrong and the lurking danger would be there.

It was coming nearer. She knew it. She slipped one hand across Jack's arm. She had to waken him. But he caught her hand in his, and still didn't wake up. Just turned a little bit.

She would count ten, and then open her eyes. Slowly—once, two, three, four. . . . But a rustling sound interrupted. And now she was sure that she could hear breathing. Hushed and irregular.

If only something would happen! Let the thing jump if it must. She couldn't stand the suspense.

She opened her eyes very slowly. There was a pool of moonlight in the center of the room. And beyond it something swayed. Something long and black and sinister threw a shadow across the floor.

She couldn't see the sky through the French doors that led to the balcony because there was something black just beyond.

It was coming closer. . . . closer. . . . She shut her eyes again. And now she had a sensation that she was drifting away. She could smell something sweet and thick. She fought against it. It was like taking ether and fighting it. If she yielded to it she would be helpless.

She pushed the blankets over her nose and held them securely, so the peculiar odor couldn't penetrate.

Jack would get whatever it was. She couldn't help him. She couldn't reach out. Something seemed to hold her hands down.

Now she wanted whatever was going to happen to happen and be over. Anything was better than this suspense.

The shadow was coming. Closer and closer. So stealthily that she could feel it, rather than see it.

She had been too scared to wonder who it was or what it wanted. It was at the foot of the bed. Instantly she knew it. She must move. Go some place. Do something. Suddenly she pulled the bed clothes over her face, moving toward the center of the bed, fighting off a terrible lethargy.

And as she did there was the sound of broken glass and the splash of a liquid.

NEXT: An escape.

SOAP AND CREAM NECESSARY FOR LOVELY NECK

BY ALICIA HART
Necks are rattle! They tell your age if you don't keep it from them. You can alibi about the lines around your mouth and eyes, but there is an alibi for a wrinkled, unlovely neck. It is due to one of two things: neglect or age.

Even if you never use soap on your face, use it on your neck, as the tissues are not as delicate as those of your face and the skin is not nearly so apt to chap and become rough. However, use your cleansing creams or lotions either before or after you use soap and water. Most women make the mistake of creaming and thoroughly cleaning their faces and entirely neglecting their throats.

Put an astringent on your neck at least twice a day, and if you use a powder keep on your face, put it also on your throat. Use your face powder and apply it just as meticulously as you do to your face. Nothing is more unattractive than a contrast between the shade of your throat and that of your face, so don't use flesh or rachel face powder and white bath or talcum powder on your neck.

If you have wrinkles and lines starting, or if the skin on your neck seems as waxy bit flabby, there are some exercises that will do much to correct the fault. If you begin doing them before you detect any flaws, of course your neck will retain its naturally columnar firmness of youth much longer.

Try these exercises if you have neck wrinkles:
1. Stand erect, drop your head backward on count one until it rests on the back. Count two, raise your head slowly and let it fall forward on count three. Repeat twenty times and remember that you should tense the muscles in your neck, while you are doing it so that just what you need.

How to Get Relief From Catarrh.

If you have catarrh, catarrhal deafness, or head noises, go to Schmitt Bros. or your druggist and get 1 oz. of Parmet (Double Strength) take this home, add to it a pint of hot water and a little sugar. Take a tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucous stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to make, tastes pleasant and costs little. Every one who has catarrh should give this treatment a trial. You will probably find it is just what you need.

WE WOMEN

By Virginia Vase

WIFE SHOULD BE ALLOWED TO HELP FINANCIALLY IF POSSIBLE
Dear Virginia Vase: I am deeply interested in the case of two young people, John and Betty who have been married for the past year, during which time John has not earned a sufficient sum to keep them in anything like comfort. His young wife Betty, who has been used to every luxury has had to work harder than any girl I've ever known. She literally has known the worst sort of poverty and John apparently feels sorry that this should be so yet he stubbornly refuses to let her have an allowance from her family which would make all the difference. He says his principles wouldn't permit of his accepting money or allowing her to. Will you tell me what you think about this situation? Is John right?

ONE DEEPLY CONCERNED.
John shouldn't let his principles stand in the way of the comfort and happiness of the girl he loves—particularly as the principles referred to are mostly born of stiff-necked pride. There's a good deal of nonsense talked by a great many young men who insist that they and they, alone, shall support their girl brides without a cent of help from her anxious family.

This isn't fair to the girl brides. It's true that if Betty had any sense she would have discussed financial matters with her John before embarking on matrimonial seas—but—she should then have insisted that she be allowed to contribute something to the household since John's salary was not sufficient to keep two people in ordinary decent comfort.

Perhaps she did discuss the matter with him and romantically accept his declaration of complete independence as something rather rare and fine. But she couldn't know exactly what she'd have to face—and it isn't now fair of John to hold her to any statement she made before experiencing real poverty.

If John intended to take this firm stand about his wife's money, then he should never have dreamed of marriage until he was in a position to support a wife. On the one hand he insists on being independent and self-reliant, and on the other he proves he isn't capable of supporting a wife independently. He ought to swallow some of his theories and see to it that his wife has the everyday comforts of life.

What is wrong anyway with a wife's contributing something to the household budget? Working wives supply their own share of the capital and nobody kicks. Why should it be considered unmanly and dishonorable to allow a wife to bring her allowance with her when she marries? Very often her contribution will be all that is needed to keep real poverty from the door.

Nobody is suggesting that John should let his wife support him—but there isn't any reason in the world why she shouldn't be permitted to help him, and if he has her best interests at heart, he'll give in on this point and not let a sense of false pride spoil their happiness together.

Is He To Be Trusted
J. P.: Do you know this boy well enough to trust him? It isn't possible to gather from your letter whether your friendship with him has existed for a considerable length of time—but certainly you must be very sure of his integrity before you venture to lend him money at this juncture.

It isn't pleasant to suspect those we're fond of—but you have only his word for it, that the reason for his eight weeks' silence is due to illness—and you have only his word for it that he failed to communicate with you for very good reasons. He hasn't altogether played the game fair with you up to date, in other ways, and therefore, it is rather risky to advance more money than you can afford to lose, in order to help him in a vague new undertaking.

Honestly if you don't trust him enough, yourself—if he isn't enough of a friend to warrant your absolute confidence—I believe you would be doing wrong to finance him now. He must have other friends, and he certainly has a family who ought to come to his aid and make it unnecessary for him to appeal to a girl in your circumstances for the financial help he needs.

CHICAGO (AP)—Ernie Nevers led the Chicago Cardinals to a 21 to 13 triumph over the league leading Green Bay Packers, in a National Football League game Sunday afternoon at Wrigley field. It was the Packers' first defeat of the season.

Nevers gave one of his greatest exhibitions in lifting the Cards to victory. In the first period he tossed a 15-yard pass to Bill Glasgow for a touchdown and place kicked for the extra point.

Early in the second session Tom Nash, Packer end, blocked one of Nevers' punts and led on it for a score, but Red Dunn failed to add the point.

In the third period, with Nevers slashing through the Packer line, the Cards took the ball to the five-yard line from where Belden plunged over and the former Stanford ace again placed kicked for the point.

Rogge, Cardinal end, intercepted a Packer pass in the final period and galloped 43 yards to the 10-yard line, and after the Green Bay line had driven the Cardinals back, Nevers faded to the 32-yard line and passed to Lee Malloy who received the ball on the four yard line and stepped over. Nevers came again place kicked for the point.

A series of Packer passes took the ball into scoring territory just before the game ended, and Hank Brucker rammed over for another Packer score. Dunn made the point. The lineup:

Cardinals	Packers
Dillweg	LE
Stahlman	LT
Constock	LG
Bowdoin	C
Seagist	RT
Nash	RE
Fitzgibbons	QB
Bruder	LH
Blood	RH
McClary	FB

By periods:
Cardinals 7 0 7 7-21
Packers 6 0 7 1-14
Substitutions—Packers: Hubbard for Stahlman, Michaels for Constock, Constock for Bowdoin, Don Carlos for Barragher, Earpe for Siegnt, Gantenben for Nash, Dunn for Fitzgibbons, Grove for Dunn, Wilson for Bruder, Englemann for Blood, Molenda for McClary, Saunders for Molenda. Cardinals: Rogge for Creighton, Williams for Tinsley, Erickson for McNally, Hendler for K. McElroy for Hill, Hober for Rogge, Belden for Glasgow.
Officials—Morris, Rock referee; Brown, Kankakee, umpire, Lawre, Chicago, headlinesman.

LAKE FOREST NOSES OUT BELOIT COLLEGE

Beloit—Scoring a touchdown in the last quarter when Stralko's 35-yard pass bounced off the fingers of two Beloit players into the grasp of Hammond, and converting the extra point when an official ruled interference on a pass in the end zone, Lake Forest nosed out Beloit Saturday, 7 to 6.

Shortly before this dramatic finish Lake Forest lost a touchdown when clipping was ruled after Dohr had caught a toss from Hammond and raced 25 yards to the goal.

Beloit also lost a touchdown when a 5-yard penalty was assessed for off side after Hess had passed to Kupke who made the catch over the line.

Beloit had the ball in Lake Forest territory practically throughout the first three quarters. The local team counted in the third period after a series of passes and runs took the oval to the 1-yard line from where Gasch plunged across. Hess' kick for the extra point sailed wide of the standards.

Saturday's Football Stars

Don Zimmerman and Jerry Dalrymple, Tulane—former's passes, latter's defensive play helped beat Georgia.

Weldon Mason, Southern Methodist—beat Baylor with 66 yard run in first period, 6-0.

Bill Morton and Bill McCall, Dartmouth—famed passing combination accounted for both touchdowns in 14-0 defeat of Cornell.

Lewis Brown, Nebraska—ran 76 yards to score winning touchdown against Kansas State.

Martin Varner and William Bell, Ohio State—former blocked Wisconsin punt, latter fell on ball for only touchdown of game.

Stanley Hamberg, Chicago—Intercepted Illinois pass and scored winning touchdown on 25 yard run.

Coach Sam Williams of Ohio State university saw his eleven defeated by coach Dick Hanley's men, but had the satisfaction of defeating the Northwestern mentor at a golf game.

LAWRENCE HARRIS WIN FROM WEST BAYS

Phil Bradley, Lawrence freshman harrier who once carried the cinder track at West Green Bay returned to his home school Saturday afternoon and clipped several seconds off the course record to pace the yearlings to a 305 to 413 victory. The time was 10:13.6.

Mazzello, West, was second; Kellogg, Lawrence and also a former Bay student third. Tenny, Lawrence fourth and Polkinghorne, Lawrence fifth and Hansen, West, tied for sixth. West, Lawrence seventh; Van Caster, West eighth; and Gram, Lawrence ninth, with Bay runners in the last seven places.

Notre Dame, U.S.C. Game Tops Weekend Schedule

BY HERBERT W. BARKER Associated Press Sports Writer
New York (AP)—The usual lull before Thanksgiving day cuts sharply into the National football schedule this week but Notre Dame, Harvard, Tulane and Southern Methodist, among major unbeaten teams, all will be firing away to improve their records.

Notre Dame and Harvard appear to be in the toughest spots. The Ramblers will play at South Bend to repel the invasion of Southern California's Trojans who have bowed over six opponents in a row since absorbing a beating by St. Mary's of Oakland, Calif., in the opening game of the season.

On paper, Harvard, only unbeaten and untied team in the east, looks too powerful for the Yale bulldogs but in this ancient rivalry, season records count for less than nothing. Tulane, victorious over Georgia last week, should be able to take it easy against Sewanee, and Southern Methodist will be a heavy favorite over the navy.

A fifth national contender, Tennessee, will be idle until Thanksgiving day when Gene McEver and his mates close their season against Kentucky.

Finally, here's the way the schedule shapes up in the various groups of conferences:

East—Harvard and Fordham, unbeaten, and Pittsburgh, defeated on by Notre Dame, look strongest although New York university also must be given consideration despite

30,000 SEE GIANTS BEATEN BY BEARS; SPARTANS WIN 14-6

Stapleton Marches 49 Yards to Beat Providence Rollers 6-0

NEW YORK (AP)—Red Grange and his Chicago Bears defeated the New York Giants 14-6 before a crowd of 30,000 in the Polo Grounds Sunday and went into third place in the National Professional league standing.

The Giants scored in the second quarter when Benny Friedman broke off tackle for 43 yards and then smashed through for a touchdown in five more plays.

The Bears came back with an aerial attack that tied the score in the third quarter, Johnson taking a forward for the touchdown. With two minutes to play in the first quarter, Brumbaugh heaves a pass to Garland Grange over the goal line for the winning score.

Cincinnati, O. (AP)—An aerial bombardment in the first half gave the Portsmouth Spartans two touchdowns and a 14 to 16 victory over the Cleveland Indians in a National League Professional football game Sunday.

A staff Cleveland line, which began clicking after four unsuccessful games, stopped the charging Spartan backs early in the game and helped Harry Workman and Otto Yokaty carry the ball to the Portsmouth nine yard line early in the first quarter, from where Alky Clark went around left end for a touchdown. Workman's kick was wide.

At this point the Spartans went into the air, and Glenn Pressnell headed a 30-yard pass to Bill McKalp, who shook off two tacklers and raced 42 yards for a touchdown.

In the second quarter, Randolph intercepted a Cleveland pass on the Indians' 45 yard stripe, and Lumpkin and Alford carried it to the 30 yard mark in four plays. Pressnell then shot a bullet-like pass to Alford behind the goal line for the Spartans' other touchdown. Pressnell place kicked both extra points.

Providence, R. I. (AP)—A 49-yard touchdown march in the fourth quarter brought Providence a 6 to 0 victory over the Stapleton team in a National Professional Football league game here Sunday. Woodruff, former Memphis player, scored on a half-yard plunge through center.

A 30-yard forward pass from Dexter Shelly, former Texas star, to Charles H. Edwards of Chicago, ex-Brown captain, was a big factor in the touchdown drive.

N. B. A. BARS M'GRAW FROM BOXING RING

Chicago (AP)—Phil McGraw, Detroit, once a threat as a contender for the world's lightweight championship, is through with the ring in an edit issued today by the National Boxing association. He is barred in the states under N. B. A. control.

General John V. Clinin, president of the N. B. A. issued a warning against matching McGraw because of physical handicaps. Gen. Clinin charged that McGraw quit in his last ring engagement against Tony Herrera in Lansing, Mich., nearly a year ago.

New York (AP)—William C. Kelley, 29, for several seasons a professional football player, died Sunday of acute indigestion.

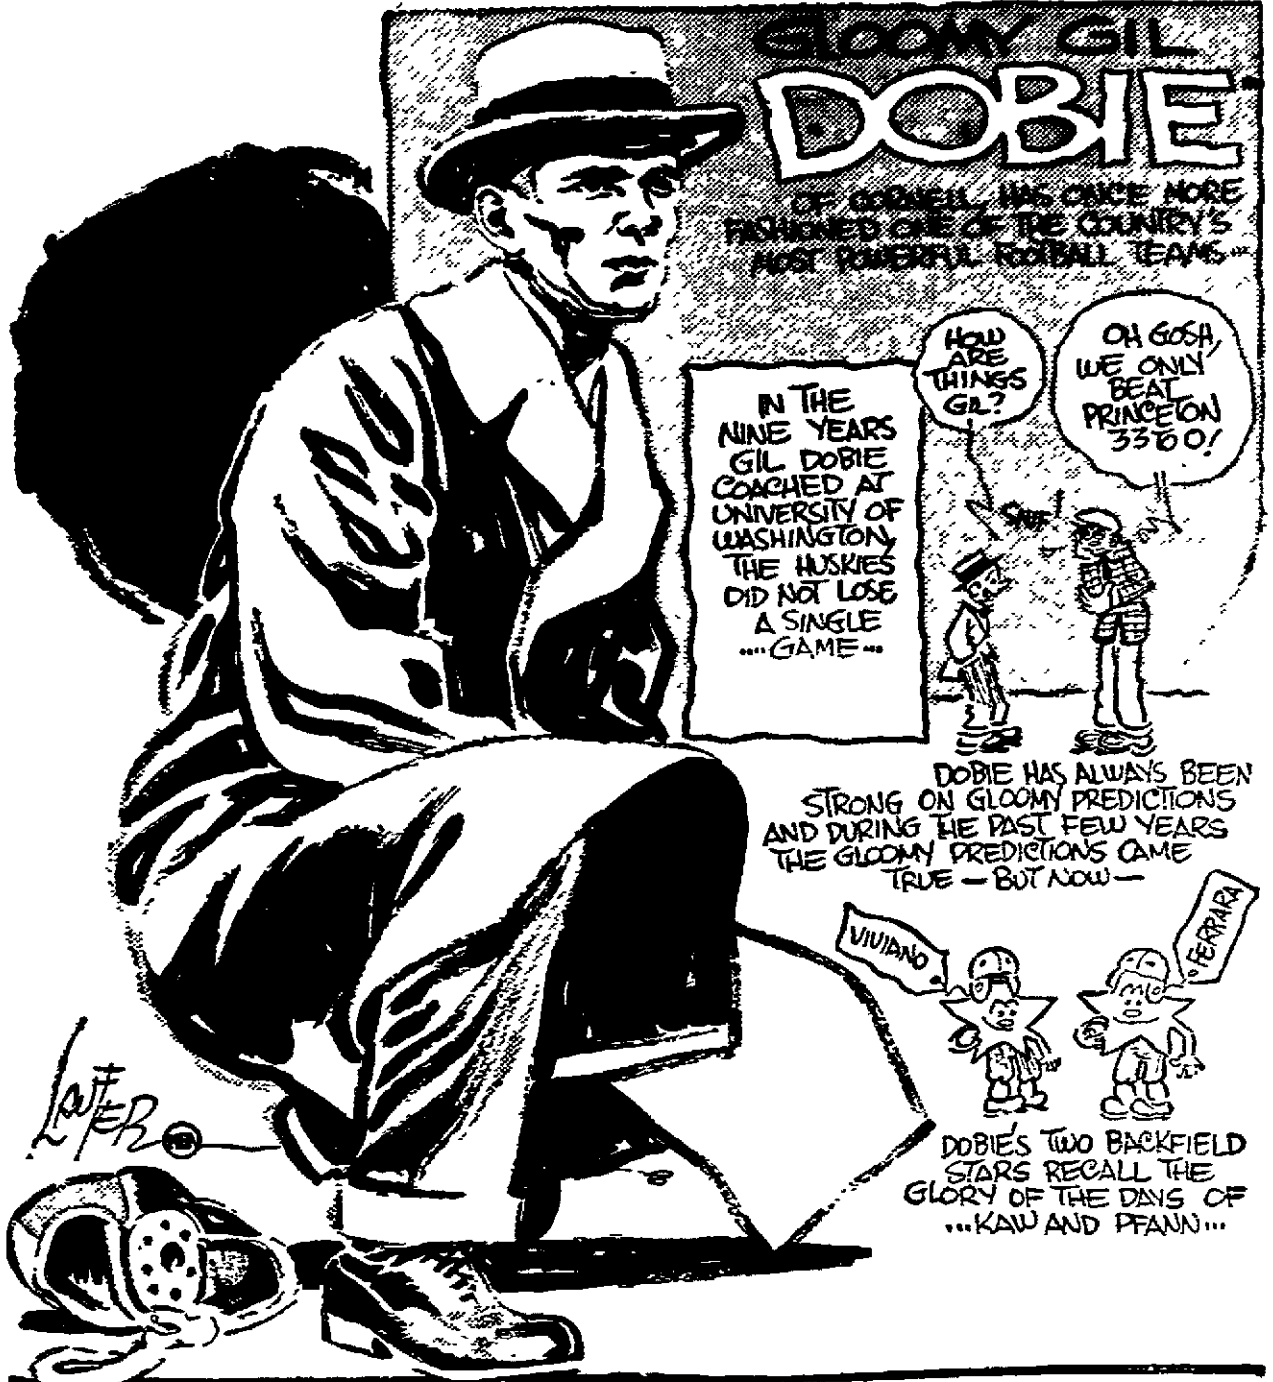

Physicians said he had eaten a quantity of peanuts and frankfurters at the Fordham-New York University game Saturday and was taken ill when he returned home. Kelley played last season with the Brooklyn Dodgers. Previously he had been on C. C. Pyle's Yankees, the all-Americans and the Yellow Jackets. He was a graduate of the University of Montana, and played on the Montana team.

Bus bowlers in the Power company league won two games from the Powers, the first and second and dropped the third because of the handicap margin. Martin led the winners with 182 in the first game; Ferguson had 182 in the second; Stillman of the Powers had high score in the third game, the one his team won, a 187.

Electricians won the first game from the Engineers with a 153 by Llewellyn, and took the third by virtue of some steady bowling by all members. The 75 to 37 handicap saved the Engineers the last game by 7 pins.

Office team easily won the first two games in the other match and then dropped the last contest when Fumal of the Gas rolled a 209. The margin of the win was one lone pin, the count being 839 to 838.

Badgers Battle Wolves, Wildcats Meet Purdue In Charity Grid Games

Schedule of Contests Arranged by Coaches in Meeting Yesterday

BY WILLIAM WEEKES Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—Another obstacle has been tossed into Northwestern's road toward an undisputed Western conference football championship.

After edging out Indiana, 7 to 6, last Saturday, the Wildcats figured that only Iowa remained to be conquered in order to gain their first clear title to the championship. But conference coaches and athletic directors, in arranging a schedule for the charity series Nov. 28, yesterday decided the added contest should count in the final standing.

Northwestern drew Purdue's Boilermakers. So instead of finishing up on Iowa, one of the weaker members of the Big Ten this season, must overcome one of the most powerful if it is to win the title.

The Northwestern-Purdue game will be played on Soldier field, Chicago's huge lakefront stadium, and ranks as the top game of the program.

Badgers Vs. Wolves
In other headlines, Wisconsin and Michigan will meet at Ann Arbor, and Ohio State will tackle Minnesota at Minneapolis.

The four second division clubs will engage in a "foursome" on Stage field, Chicago, Thanksgiving day. This foursome, which also will be an elimination tournament, will bring together Chicago and Iowa, in a 30 minute contest, and Illinois and Indiana in another two-period battle.

The winners will then meet in a third two-period game. If no scoring is done in the two first games, the winners will be decided on the basis of yardage gained. This plan was suggested by athletic director George Huff of Illinois.

It had been expected that Michigan and Northwestern, which tied for the 1930 Big Ten title, would meet, but the coaches and directors decided that a bigger crowd would be attracted if Northwestern played in Soldier field. They still wished to use the huge Michigan stadium, and shifted to give the Wolverines a home game.

The Northwestern-Purdue battle is expected to draw a crowd of 60,000 with about 50,000 for the other two major meetings.

Five Games This Week
This week five strictly Big Ten contests will be played for the first time of the season. In addition to the Northwestern-Iowa game at Iowa City, Minnesota will invade Michigan, Wisconsin will meet Chicago at Chicago, Illinois will tackle Ohio State at Columbus, and Purdue and Indiana will renew the Hoosier classic at Bloomington.

Northwestern figures to take care of Iowa, which lost to Purdue, 22 to 0, last week, but may find the going a little rough. The Wildcats played lastly against Indiana, and only managed to win by the margin of a point after touchdown. The Hoosiers outgained Northwestern through nearly three periods and gave the high powered eleven from the shores of Lake Michigan its greatest score of the season.

A. A. MOGULS MEET TO ELECT PRESIDENT

Chicago (AP)—Storm clouds began gathering around Thomas J. Hickey, president of the American association for the last 15 years, as the club owners began assembling here for their annual meeting tomorrow.

Reports from outposts indicate that there will be at least three candidates in the field for the presidency, although Hickey's supporters are convinced they have enough votes pledged to retain him in office.

George Belden, owner of the Minneapolis club, was one of the outstanding candidates to succeed Hickey if he fails in election. W. E. Clauer of Indianapolis and Joseph Carr of Columbus, president of the National Football league, also have been mentioned.

Hickey, the founder of the league, was its president for three years and then came back to resume the office of executive director 15 years ago.

FOURTH WARD PACKERS HUMBLE FIFTH WARDERS

Fourth ward Packers recently beat the Fifth ward Bear football team, 20 and 18. Kenneth Van Ryzin was the Packer star, making two first downs. Van Ryzin passed to Jimmy DeYoung for one touchdown and then the Bears came back to tie the score.

A pass Van Ryzin to Edward Ponschock brought the next Packer marker, and a third pass Van Ryzin to Howard Van Ryzin resulted in another. The Bears then rallied and scored two touchdowns to tie the score. Then the Packers kicked to the Bears and when the Bear receiver fumbled he was downed behind his own goal for a safety and the Packers won the decision, 20 and 18.

NEW YORK (CPA)—Back of the sale of the Newark baseball club in the International league by Paul Block to Col. Jacob Ruppert, who also is owner of the New York Yankees, is a pitch store system in organized baseball.

In his statement of reasons for transferring the property to Colonel Ruppert, Mr. Block makes mention of the fact that the Rochester club has won the pennant three years in succession with the assistance of the St. Louis National league club, clearly intimating that with such a powerful ally behind Rochester it is out of the question for an individual who is in league club to cope with the combination of major minor interests.

This presents another theory on the value of the chain store system to baseball and one which has been in slow process of formation for the last two seasons, growing more intense in 1931.

Mr. Block believes that the New York Americans, under Joe McCarr, as manager, will be able to work in close cooperation with Newark and that from the Yankees the Newark club will receive the kind of assistance it needs if Rochester and the St. Louis Nationals remain allied permanently.

Ray Moss Case Sited
The Newark club was very anxious last season to obtain the services of Ray Moss, a pitcher with Brooklyn and afterward with Boston. The Boston club was dissatisfied with the condition of the player tied to hold Brooklyn to account. Boston finally asked waivers on him and St. Louis got him, having a legal baseball preference.

SHEBOYGAN HUMBLER MANITOWOC, 12 AND 0

Sheboygan—Sheboygan defeated Manitowoc, 12 to 0, Saturday in the final game of the Fox River Valley season. The victory gave Sheboygan a record of eight wins, three ties and one defeat in the 12-year feud between the two prep rivals.

Sheboygan threatened four times in the first half and Manitowoc lost one scoring chance by inches on the Sheboygan 10-yard line. A blocked punt by Gray was scooped up by Berger who ran 10 yards to a touchdown in the third quarter. A bit later Sheboygan took the ball on the Manitowoc 21-yard line and Berger climaxed a series of line plays by going over from the four-yard line.

TONY CANZONERI AND CHOCOLATE TO CLASH FRIDAY

Champion Defending Lightweight Title Third Time in Last Year

NEW YORK (AP)—Tony Canzoneri's third defense of his lightweight championship in little more than a year perhaps will be his last.

For the latest challenger for Tony's 135-pound crown is none other than Eligio Sardinias of Cuba, otherwise Kid Chocolate. They will battle over the 15-round championship in the Madison Square Garden Friday night.

Canzoneri, one-time holder of the featherweight championship, knocked out Al Singer in a single round here in November last year, to capture the lightweight title. He has twice defended it against the busy Briton, Jack (Kid) Berg, knocking out the Whitechapel Hebrew in three rounds in Chicago in April and then winning decisively on points in a return bout here in September.

Although the lightweight title will be the chief prize, one other championship and possibly two, will be up for decision. The junior welterweight title Canzoneri took from Berg automatically will be on the block. And so will Chocolate's junior lightweight crown provided Canzoneri elects to make 130 pounds, the weight limit for that somewhat synthetic division. That poundage Tony probably can make but it would be two or three pounds under his normal fighting weight and the Italian may decide against taking any chances of weakening himself.

In Chocolate, Canzoneri will be meeting a better boxer than Berg and a much harder hitter. But there is some doubt as to Chocolate's ability to travel the full 15 rounds against so strong a fighter as Canzoneri. The Cuban slowed up badly in the last five rounds of his losing bout with Bat Battalino for the featherweight title.

Canzoneri probably will be the betting favorite at narrow odds of 6 to 5 or 10 to 10.

Other outstanding fights shows this week will be held at Chicago area Bago on Thursday night. At Chicago, Primo Carnera will meet King Levinsky of Chicago in a ten rounder and at Boston, Ernie Scaaf, Boston heavyweight, will tangle with Jack Dorval of New York.

Bat Battalino will engage Bushy Graham, Utica, N. Y., veteran, in a ten round non-title bout at the Chicago show.

FIGHT TICKETS

Tickets for the amateur fight program Thursday night may be obtained at any of the following places. Bellings drug store, Dick's Place, Gil Myse, Jones Hotel, Olympic Billiards, and the Cozy Inn. The Club at New London handles the duets.

Sale Of Newark Raises Question About Chains

ing a legal baseball preference. When Moss was obtained by St. Louis, one of the Newark owners said he would wager five to one that Moss would be in Rochester within two days—and sure enough he was.

Toward the close of the season Newark, believing that a pennant was in sight, attempted to purchase Lebrun, an outfielder and heavy hitter, from Toledo. According to the Newark officials, the sale was as good as made but when Toledo tried to permit the player to get out of the American association and go to Newark, Columbus claimed him. The St. Louis Nationals.

St. Louis officials insisted they had taken Lebrun only because they needed him, but no amount of explanation could change opinion in Newark, which believed that Lebrun had been anchored in Columbus in order that Newark might be handicapped in the close race with Rochester.

The nearer the season came to its end, the angrier the Newark faction became. The fans saw the pennant again slipping to Rochester—as they thought, because the St. Louis National league club had intervened to make it possible.

Newark is one of the most valuable of the minor league clubs. Mr. Block, during his four years as owner, spared no effort to give Newark a high class team and in 1931 his team made one of the most gallant fights in the history of the International league.

The sale of the club has upset the International league, which was loath to lose Mr. Block, but the circuit gains a staunch supporter in Colonel Ruppert.

LAWRENCE CLOSES FOOTBALL SEASON WITH 45-6 BEATING

Vikings Score in First Period When Carleton Punt Is Blocked

LAWRENCE college football team closed the 1931 season here Saturday afternoon by taking a terrific wallop from Carleton college team, Northfield, Minn. The score was 45 and 6 and there was just about that much difference between the teams.

Lawrence scored its only marker in the opening period when Vanderbloemen booted a punt out of bounds a couple yards from the Carleton goal line. The invaders then attempted to punt and Hanses blocked the kick. Kuether, recovering for Lawrence and giving the Vikings their marker. The try for the point failed.

And that was the only chance the Vikes had to score. For the rest of the afternoon they were so busy trying to stop Broberg, big Carleton fullback, Nordley, a fast running half and a little shaver named Lab, that they couldn't begin to think of taking a field goal. They didn't have the ball long enough to consider the project.

Carleton showed itself the finest football team Lawrence has met in Midwest or Big Four circles this year, and Vikings claim the team blocked and ran interference even better than Marquette. The Vikes took much physical punishment during the afternoon and were a mass of bruises and bumps when they finally staggered to the showers late in the afternoon.

Carls Do Everything
Carleton did everything out there in the mud and rain Saturday. It plunged and plunged and plunged, went off tackle, around the ends, threw forward passes, uncoiled a couple laterals and used every means on the square and the round. It looked much more like a championship aggregation than Ripon even if the standings do show the Crimson has played more games.

This Broberg who started the Carls on their march to a victory scored three markers in the first half. He is the same chap who ran the Midwest ragged a few years ago when Carleton was cleaning up on everything and had several great teams.

Last year, Broberg remained out of school but his absence from the grid certainly did not affect his playing ability and he again ranks with the best fullbacks in the league. Nordley showed a nice open field runner, and once scampered 71 yards for a touchdown. Labs, apparently a youngster and a real rep, but if he looked any leather much next fall he'll be a sensation.

You can't very well pick out any stars or outstanding players on a team that gets walloped 45 and 6. However, the Vikes did their best until they were overrun by numbers and from the battering they took it was more than evident they tried.

Underbloemen at left end was one of the holding his own on defense, but even he was taken out nicely on more than one occasion, especially when Nordley galloped for that 71 yard run. Vandy also did the Lawrence punting and there excoiled the Carl kicker and gave Lawrence its chance to score. Hanses played alert ball, witness that blocked punt, and so did Kuether who followed up and fell on the ball.

Nothing for Charity
The game was slated as a charity contest but Dame Charity took as bad a beating at the Vikings. The rain kept all the folks at home who might have attended and there probably was only 50 paid admissions. Charity therefore received nothing.

LA FOLLETTE TO GATHER FIGURES ON RELIEF WORK

Material Will Be Used to Press for Federal Aid for Unemployed

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent

Washington—Sen. Robert M. La Follette Jr., of Wisconsin plans to collect from towns and cities all over the country latest statistics on the amount needed for unemployment relief this winter, as he did last winter.

This material will be used to press for federal aid in unemployment relief. Last year he had reports from every city in Wisconsin, all the big cities everywhere, and smaller cities in many states, all of which he published on the Congressional Record and used in speeches.

Preliminary reports reaching him from major cities, he said, indicate that the need is far greater this year than last. Even if the present tendency toward more employment continues, he said, the need for direct relief will be greater because many people who lived on their savings last year are entirely without resources and will be forced to accept charity. Furthermore, wage cuts and part-time work will prevent some employed people from aiding relatives and friends out of work as they did last winter.

Sen. La Follette says the federal unemployment exchange is "woefully inadequate." He points out that there are 139,000 to 150,000 unemployed in Wisconsin, and only one federal employment agent working in Milwaukee.

He will support a much larger program for public works than Sen. George W. Norris' proposal for a $3,000,000,000 bond issue to build roads without costs to the states. He says he is for a building program that will include much more than roads and the present federal building program.

Friends of Sen. and Mrs. La Follette will be pleased to learn that Mrs. La Follette is recovering exceedingly well, considering the disappointment and grief over the loss of the little girl born to them the morning of Nov. 8, who lived only five hours. A valvular heart trouble was the cause of the baby's death, physicians said after further examination as to the cause of the failure of her respiratory system.

Sen. La Follette had a rush to Cleveland, Ohio, that night to deliver a lecture, returning the next morning. He had cancelled three speaking engagements while awaiting the event which was so happily expected but which proved so tragic to the young couple.

Mrs. Ralph Sucher, who was Mary La Follette, expects her second child almost any day now.

Rep. John C. Scheffer of Milwaukee is in Augusta, Ga. where he braves the most rabid of prohibitionists in a talk against prohibition—and against insurgency—at a banquet Saturday night.

Earlier in the day, politics was entirely out when he spoke at the unveiling of a statue of Dr. Paul Fitzsimmons, Eves, distinguished Southern surgeon who served in the Polish forces a hundred years ago when Poland was fighting against Russia for her freedom. The occasion celebrated the centennial of the Polish revolt.

The $400,000 dormitory group, sewage disposal plant, pump house, power plant, and water softening plant at the Girls Industrial home in Dane-co led the long list of Wisconsin public works contracts reported in the last week to the President's organization for unemployment relief.

Second was the $375,000 high school at Whitefish Bay, and third was the $250,000 junior high school at Wauwatosa.

Other projects reported included: $60,000 park development and improvement at Beloit; $20,000 street improvements at Little Chute; two schools in Waukesha-co totaling $16,000; $12,250 bridge in Calumet-co; $10,000 school building in Barron-co; $8,995 sewer and water main construction at Burlington; $10,000 addition to Wauwatosa asylum; $5,000 remodeling of Wyocena school in Columbia-co; $4,500 rural school in Eau Claire-co; $4,500 water mains in Viroqua; $7,000 De Remer school in Racine-co; $3,627 water mains in Oshkosh; $5,000 remodeling of schools in Adams-co; $7,000 worth of improvements to the Berlin water system; $5,000 heating at Lincoln school at Merrill; $22 sanitary sewers at Oostburg; $10,000 water works improvements at Janesville.

As in Dunn-co, $13,700 improvements to water and sewerage system; $10,000 to $1,000 road grave; $3,500 worth of school improvements in Oneida-co, and a educational building at the fair grounds.

The federal government during the past week awarded a contract for $160,000 for the remodeling and extension of the La Crosse federal building. A firm in St. Paul, Minn. got the job.

Wisconsin men who have recently accepted appointment or promotion in the army reserves include: Col. Stephen Carpenter Phillips, Hudson, Engineers; Lt. Col. Burnell Oliver Henderson, Eau Claire, Coast Artillery; Maj. Samuel Frederick Oakley, Superior, Infantry.

Capt. Charles Albert Dodson, Hugh Gibson, Dodgeville, Quartermaster; Capt. William John Humphrey, Beloit, Infantry.

First Lieutenants: William Knott Harding, Virginia, Rear Artillery; Rose, Berdoo, and William Herman Wegener, Green Bay, all in the Infantry; Earl George Huwatschek, Port Washington, Dental Reserve; Aloysius Edmund Oeborn, Wausau, Signal Reserve; and Max Nathaniel Olson, Port Washington, Field Artillery.

Crisis In Manchuria Has Been In Making For Years

New York — (P) — Throw New York state, Texas and all of New England into one:

Shape it like a stubby revolver. Populate it with 25,000,000 small farmers, most of them Chinese, and hundreds of thousands of Russian and Japanese merchants:

Track it with railroads; Give it a climate ranging from extreme heat to terrific cold; Fill it with mineral wealth; Sandwich it in between Siberia, Mongolia and Korea:

And what you have is Manchuria, battle ground of the east. It lies 5,000 miles due west of Portland, Ore., directly north of the Philippine Islands and on a line with the territory between Cincinnati and Hudson Bay.

It is a land of strange contrasts—ancient customs and American tractors; wild forests filled with bear and lumber and fertile valleys; the smoldering plains of Illinois; energetic empire builders and shiftless peasants.

Since long before the Christian era, it has been a setting for dramas of arms and men. Its recent growth and importance it owes to one of the greatest migrations in the history of the world, and that, in part, is responsible for the trouble in which it now is embroiled. In ancient times three powerful empires met at this crossroads of the Orient, the Bears, the Dragons, and the Rising Suns. From them rose up a republic which swept China and put an eight year old boy on the throne, a boy whose ancestors ruled the great Chinese empire for 350 years.

In Manchuria cities gradually sprang up, a wealth of minerals was discovered and finally railroads were pushed through and new fields of commerce were opened.

Then came the tidal waves, sweeping seas of people running from revolution and famine, or seeking their fortune in an undeveloped land.

In the last 20 years the railroads and the immigrants have transformed a region of feudal lords and nomad herdsmen into a land of huge trade and agriculture.

Crack Trains There Crack pullman trains drawn by locomotives made in Philadelphia speed across the fertile valleys.

from the public view in recent months, Wisconsin will still be interested in the findings of the Census bureau, made public Friday, that 215 per cent of the total retail store, business in the United States is done by retail chains. There are 7,046 chain store organizations, operating $59,826 units or 19 per cent of all the stores in the country.

WHAT A JOB! Los Angeles — Police were faced with one of the toughest jobs they've had for a long time—but it wasn't any tougher than that of the chieftains they were sent out to capture. The crooks had stolen seven pet skunks belonging to R. N. Bowman, and the cops were sent out to locate and bring back the animals. Gas masks were part of the equipment taken along.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, causing a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system. If you have a pale face, yellow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—now and then to keep fit. 15c, 30c and 60c.

HOME FINANCE PLAN RESULT OF LENGTHY STUDY

Hoover Tried Vainly to Persuade Private Interests to Undertake Work

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1931 by Post Pub. Co.
Washington—President Hoover's plan for government aid in the rediscouping of first mortgages of building and loan associations, involving a possible capital operation of $1,000,000,000, is the direct result of an inability to persuade large financial interests to do virtually the same thing.

Many of the large insurance companies are today purchasing a few first mortgages previously held by banks and other institutions but generally they find themselves unable to effect the transfers without running into conflict with state laws or with the desire of the local institution to retain the privilege of receiving payments from the borrowers directly.

Mr. Hoover's announcement has been made after many months of futile negotiations with private financial interests and it remained therefore for the government to do the job by offering to set up a rediscout institution analogous to the federal land bank system.

Only First Class Risks The significant thing in the new plan is that it is not a plan to be effective must be embodied in an act of congress, is that the very purpose underlying the large purchase by insurance companies of first mortgages for investment of their surplus funds will be adopted by the new rediscout organization.

Only first class risks will be taken and then collateral must be given which will in effect give the new finance system the equivalent of a first lien on every piece of property on which money is loaned. Such a first lien would be satisfied in a foreclosure sale by recovering from 25 to 30 per cent of the appraised value.

Naturally the banks or the institutions which have rediscouted their first mortgages are not going to allow the finance corporation to sell them out just to get 25 or 30 per cent of the money represented by a sound appraisal of the property. So the local institutions using a rediscout plan will probably use their own capital and even borrow if they are able on their own credit to prevent any foreclosures through the rediscout corporation.

Capital Expansion On the other hand, capital expansion is possible through the very existence of a place where building and loan associations and first mortgage companies of some rank can go to convert instantly into cash a portion of what otherwise might be a frozen or long term obligation.

The knowledge on the part of a local building and loan association that it can rediscout certain of its holdings multiplies the opportunities for extending credit for home building. All mortgages in the proposed plan are to be limited to 25,000 dollars, which means that the credit system will be primarily of value to the builders of small homes. But these represent the largest single factor in the residential construction industry whose expenditure tures for labor and materials in a normal year run about ten billions of dollars.

The risks in first mortgages of fifteen thousand dollars or less are bound to be relatively small, since a finance corporation can balance its losses in one district or city with its gains in another. A surplus should come to the finance corporation as a result of successful operations in the whole country. Unquestionably the long term bonds to be floated will be relatively inexpensive to the finance corporation since it will have government backing.

Smaller Interest Rate The bonds will in all probability sell at an interest rate not to exceed 4 per cent, whereas the interest on the mortgages will carry the usual 6 per cent rate. The spread between the two will afford a cushion for the finance corporation against losses through forecloses 4 mortgages or other unforeseen causes.

To give private capital every opportunity and inducement to subscribe for the capital stock of the new finance corporation, bonds will be offered to the local building and loan and other financial institutions very much as is the case with the federal land bank system. But there will be, of course, federal supervision of this new system of credit.

The large groups of the country have been a constant reminder of the fact that the government is to cover real estate generally. Ultimately, of course, it may come about, but the plan at face value, a state should be made with the small home and then it can be determined whether machinery is needed for the larger mortgage transactions.

The importance of the step taken now is that of official figures show a shortage of credit, and the large number for sale or for rent. The latter situation is due to unemployment and diminished purchasing power. Once there is a beginning of employment, the need for loans will be greater than the supply, and while this may not be apparent for a year or two, it is the intention of the president to get a plan started which at best may take a year to get into full operation but which will assist in building up anew the construction industry as a stimulating influence in a gradually returning prosperity.

LADY with a PAST

BY HARRIET HENRY

Chapter 23
"COULD YOU MARRY FOR A TITLE?"

THE taxi drew up before the Louis-Le-Grand. Rene helped her to the pavement. "Goodnight, Venice," she said. "Good night, Venice." He made his small fluid bow.

"Thank you for a charming evening. And I will see you tomorrow at my party."

"Perhaps you don't want me to come now." She felt that he was definitely annoyed.

"But certainly I do. I will find out about those not fine lines."

Venice went happily inside. It had been a triumphant evening. Lola could write home now and tell of Venice's new blossoming forth. Sitting in her room the next day Venice gave herself up to thoughts. It suddenly crossed her mind that Rene had returned her no money from last night's dinner. It was not a pleasant recollection.

Guy called to take her to dinner and from there to Rene's party. She dressed quickly.

At a small table at the Maitland-Russ she told him about the evening before.

"And Rene really seemed enthusiastic about me," she concluded.

"Look here, could you fall in love with him, Venice?"

"No."

"Could you marry purely for a title?"

"No. It would take the greatest amount of loving for me to marry at all."

"I want to warn you about Rene. He has debts all over town. I know he'll marry the first rich girl who isn't ugly that will have him."

Venice remembered the unreturned money from the evening before.

"It's rather despicable really."

"I don't know. Marriage is a gamble anyway. I'm sorry for Rene. He's really a decent sort but unaccustomed poverty is wearing thin the edges of his decency. And he's loved a married woman for four years. That wounds too."

Venice realized that evening that people were beginning to gossip about her and Guy. At first she felt her cheeks grow hot, then realized it was exactly what she needed. Perhaps the talk would creep to New York. Mrs. Coates was at the party and she was the first to give her a hint of current rumor.

"You are so charming, my dear," she said. "Guy told me about your mother dying over here. I'm sorry. It's difficult for a young girl unchaperoned. You must be very careful."

"Guy must be in love with you," Mrs. Coates suggested as though there was grave danger in such a possibility.

"Oh, no," Venice assured her. "All things considered you're being very foolish, my dear."

Venice suddenly wondered at that "all things considered." Was there something important she didn't know about in connection with Guy? She sensed an undercurrent of which she was ignorant. No, that was silly. It was her aloneness to which Mrs. Coates referred. Surely that must be it.

"We're very old friends," she said. Venice was enjoying herself. The conversation seemed unreal because Mrs. Coates was warning her against a dubious reputation which she coveted.

Mrs. Coates looked sincerely distressed.

"I don't understand," she murmured.

"What?" asked Venice. "It's all very simple, our friendship."

Rene approached at this moment. Mrs. Coates rose. "I'm going to rescue Guy."

She nodded towards where he stood with Lita Chase, the young English woman of butternut hair and numerous divorces. "Lita can be like a burr at times."

With the interruption of Mrs. Coates, Lita Chase came over to join Venice and Rene.

"You're brave, Rene," she said. "Why?" he asked.

"You're always trying to monopolize Guy's girl," Venice protested.

"She is my girl," Rene suggested softly. It was bravado for the benefit of Lita Chase, but it was also put softly enough to be an intimate question for Venice.

"I'm no one's girl," she said. "I belong solely to myself."

It was curious but with this spontaneous little speech she felt a new pride at her own freedom.

"Oh, there's Gresham," Lita Chase hurried away.

Here Guy approached.

"Mrs. Coates wants us all for a month at her villa," he said.

"Excuse me a minute," Rene got to his feet. "The butler he is not filling the glasses."

"Tell me about Mrs. Coates' invitation," said Venice.

"She has a lovely villa between Biarritz and St. Jean. She's inviting you and Rene and me and a niece of hers who is due from America tomorrow."

"But why should she ask me?"

"Because she can't get Rene any other way. She has her eye on him for the niece."

"That's a horrid reason to be given an invitation. A sort of bait for her niece's fish. I don't want to go."

"Now, don't be stupid. Venice. You'll see yourself in the social notes. Mrs. Coates has prominent over here and it's no mean thing to be included in a house party with Le Marquis Rene de Thénardier."

"Heta you are dear," Mrs. Coates came briskly to their side. Guy gave her his seat. "Will you come down to Biarritz next Tuesday for a month, Venice? I should love to have you."

Venice had a sudden picture of hot sunny streets and her bare room at the Louis-Le-Grand.

"I'd love to," she said. "You're very kind, Mrs. Coates."

"That's splendid and you've got to come too, Guy."

"I can't resist," said Guy. "Thank you very much."

"Now," sighed Mrs. Coates. "Here's Rene. We must tackle him."

"What about, madame?" Rene approached heard the words.

"My house party at the villa. For August. I want you a week from today. What do you say, Rene? There will be Venice and Guy and my niece, Rosemary Grant."

"It is a lovely name," she said. "Rosemary Grant will be there with pleasure, Mrs. Coates."

"Good Lord," thought Venice, "believe I'm losing my sense of proportion."

The week before Venice left for Biarritz was a very quiet one.

Going down on the train to Biarritz she slept soundly with a heavy sort of resignation to what was about to occur.

Mrs. Coates and a large nineteen-year-old Rolls Royce met her in the station. They rolled over the hills to the villa between Biarritz and St. Jean de-Luz. The villa perched on a hill close to the sea.

Rene started eagerly down the steps.

"Ah, Venice, and you have lavender rings under your eyes from the beastly train. Hello, Guy."

"And this is Rosemary," announced Mrs. Coates, pulling forward her niece who hovered on the edge of the group like an excited and eager child. She was short and very plump, with thick stocky legs and a round face. She was an ugly girl in a jolly, good-natured way and you liked her immediately.

There was a delicious dejeuner waiting at a great table in a dining-room that faced the water.

"This is too lovely," said Venice, her eyes going through the wide window to see the sea. "We might be on a yacht."

There were three perfect weeks of breakfast in bed, long mornings gazing in the warm sun of a private beach, afternoons at the Golf Club at Biarritz, evenings of the Casino or moonlit spots along the sand.

Their relations to one another became a game of strategy. Rene pursued Venice and Venice pursued Guy in an effort to give Rosemary a chance with Rene. As for Rosemary she consorted with whomever was left her. She was happy and untroubled. Mrs. Coates was like the helpless sergeant of an untried corps. She could not make them maneuver as she had intended and so she merely stood by and watched in an anxious, futile sort of way.

Venice finds both romance and tragedy at Biarritz, tomorrow.

Your Birthday

WHAT TOMORROW MEANS TO YOU
"SCORPIO"
If November 17th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:30 a. m. to noon; from 5 p. m. to 6:50 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10:10 p. m. The danger periods are from 3 p. m. to 4:15 p. m. and from 7:30 p. m. to 8:45 p. m.

Harmonious influences are in force on November 17th, and there will be a drawing together with accompanying peace and happiness of those who have reached a state of armed neutrality. Business programs will be talked by a temporary sort of a stalemate, which will cause tantalizing delays.
Children born on November 17 will have warm, sympathetic natures, and will be creatures of decided emotions. They will scatter their affections freely, and will love with intensity. They will not have much vital stamina, and should lead lives of moderation, and heed common sense health laws.

Born on November 17th, you have very remarkable powers of self-control, and it is not often that you give way to your emotions. You are credited with being cold and indignant, for you rarely outwardly demonstrate any feelings of affection or display any indication of enthusiasm. Your seeming attitude of taking everything for granted is annoying to your associates. If you are not guilty of ingratitude, you are guilty of thoughtlessness and selfishness. If you were a little more chummy with people, you would find their response repaying for any efforts made on your part. If you were more audible and less secretive about your personal affairs, views and feelings, you would not be such an enigma to the rest of the world.

You have grit and backbone and you shoulder your burdens and crosses without a murmur. Although you are proud of being so self-sustained, you are sometimes extremely lonely and wish that you could get nearer to your fellow beings. You would like to throw aside your dignity, and to learn how to be a play-fellow with your companions. Some great sorrow, or great love, may alter your entire being, so that you are able to express, and no longer suppress, your most human emotions. You are an efficient being, and you have it in you to become a lovable one.

Successful People Born on November 17th:

- 1—Tom Tazewell—politician and hotel proprietor.
- 2—Giuseppe Campanani—operative baritone.
- 3—Frank Arthur Vanderlip—banker.
- 4—Betty Bronson—film star.
- 5—Grace Abbott—social worker.
- 6—Valentine Scott—surgeon.

Sherwood—A large attendance was reported Thursday evening at the program and basket social at the Sherwood school in Appleton. Andrew Jackson school in Port Washington, given by Mrs. Mildred Barree, singing, "O Christmas Eve," by Mrs. J. C. Smith; health talk by Mrs. C. D. Boyd; Mrs. Olin G. Dryer will talk on the sale of Christmas seals, which is one of the annual undertakings of the club.

CABBAGE BUYERS NOW OFFER $15 PER TON FOR CROP

Farmers Have Large Part of Harvested Portion in Storage

BY W. F. WINSEY
Shiocton—Offers of $15.00 per ton for cabbage are now being made. It is said. Farmers have a considerable part of the crop stored. Although frost has not hurried the growers and thus far has done no damage, the cabbage is about all harvested. Growers are still cutting scattering cauliflower in their fields and none of the leaves of the plants have been injured by frosts. Herds have already taken possession of the cabbage fields, but the animals can be seen looking at the stands of volunteer barley and oats through the fences in other fields or responding to whiffs of alfalfa wafted from a distance. The oldest farmers in this section of Outagamie-co cannot recall a fall when outdoor feed for herds was as plentiful as this fall. Farm animals may fill up where they stand without moving.

This great outside supply of feed for farm animals, and frostless November will go a long way in balancing up the shortage of hay and corn caused by the summer drought. Every day's feed for herds in the field saves a day's feed in the stables. Another month of outside field feed would be the most valuable present that the weather man could give the rank and file of dairymen.

22 MEN ENROLLED IN FARM NIGHT SCHOOL

BY W. F. WINSEY
Leeman—Twenty-two farmers are attending the night agricultural school, conducted by W. D. Brownson, Smith-Hughes instructor of the Shiocton high school, in the Sunset school building west of here, each Tuesday night. On the same evenings, Miss Margorie Johnson, home economics instructor of the Shiocton high school is conducting woman's classes in private homes about the Sunset school. Refracting garments was Miss Johnson's subject at the last meeting of her class. At the men's meeting Tuesday night County Agent G. A. Sell talked on determining and comparing values as preparation for the economical purchase of dairy rations.

SHIOCTON FARMER INVENTS FEEDER

Device, 12 Feet Long,
Placed in Use in Chicken
Houses

BY W. F. WINSEY
Shiocton—A new mash feeder with a rolling ridge has been invented by Leland Shephardson. It is 12 feet long, and he is now using five of the new contrivances which he says works perfectly in his straw loft laying house.

Mr. Shephardson lately inclosed his flock of 435 White Leghorn pullets and 100 old hens in his house, 25 by 50 feet, and a few days after feeding them with the egg laying mash the birds produced 100 eggs. He expects his birds to increase that number at least 50 eggs daily until between 50 and 60 per cent production is reached. His flock is in good condition.

He is feeding a home grown laying mash, consisting of 300 pounds of ground corn; 200 pounds of ground oats; 200 pounds of flour middlings, 200 pounds of bran; 100 pounds of meat scraps; 100 pounds of alfalfa leaf meal; 30 pounds of steam bone meal, and 10 pounds of

CITY DOESN'T OWN PROPERTY IN STREET

Milwaukee—(AP)—Right in the middle of majestic Capitol drive, with traffic thundering on either side, is a triangular plot of ground on which the city has planted gardenias and bridal wreaths. Officials swelled with civic pride as they pointed to it.

Imagine their embarrassment then when it was discovered that the city does not own the triangle, and that the real owners might have erected a brick silo on it. Edward C. Grieb, city real estate agent, found that the city possesses quit claim deeds to it, but the deeds were executed by persons who never owned it.

The real owners are Richard and Julia Schomburg, who have no notions of building a brick silo but who want salt. He expects to add charcoal and dried buttermilk to the mash soon. His grain mixture consists of barley and wheat, scattered in the litter.

Last spring Mr. Shephardson bought 1,000 chicks, later sold the cockerels, and reserved 435 pullets.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth. Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agents for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat trouble. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)
